

JFK Drives For Medical Care For The Aged

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Kennedy pressed Thursday for enactment of a "freedom of choice" program under which 14.2 million older men and women would receive hospital, nursing and other medical care paid for by bigger Social Security taxes.

Sending his medical care for the aged program to Congress, Kennedy sought to neutralize one major opposing argument by declaring, "This... is not a program of socialized medicine."

"It is a program of prepayment of health costs with absolute freedom of choice guaranteed," the President said in a special message. "Every person will choose his own doctor and hospital."

Arguing the need for his program, Kennedy said the 16 million Americans over age 65 face an annual medical bill twice that of the younger segment of the population "but their annual income is only half as high."

May Be Hot Battle

The American Medical Association — which has opposed the approach Kennedy advocated Thursday — declined immediate comment.

Kennedy's message signaled what may turn out to be the hottest battle of the session. Key Republican leaders said they still dislike the Social Security approach and one GOP group objected in part because older persons not covered by Social Security would not get help under Kennedy's plan.

Democratic chiefs, led by House Speaker Sam Rayburn of Texas, applauded the President's proposal, "A mighty fine thing," Rayburn called it.

The Kennedy plan — much like one Congress would not accept last year — would benefit 13.7 million persons over age 65 who are under Social Security and about 500,000 covered by the railroad retirement pension system.

They would be eligible for 90 days of free hospital care for a single illness, nursing home service up to 180 days after leaving the hospital, outpatient clinic attention costing more than $20 and the services of visiting nurses.

This medical care for the aged program — which would start paying benefits on July 1, 1962 — would cost about $1.5 billion a year.

Kennedy pledged the system would be self-supporting "and would not place any burden on the general revenues."

It would be financed by raising the Social Security tax on both workers and employers by one-quarter of 1 per cent, effective Jan. 1, 1963. The present levy is 3 per cent and, even without counting the medical care program, is due to rise by one-half of 1 per cent as of the first of 1963.

Up Tax Base

Also, Kennedy would have Congress broaden the Social Security tax base from the first $4,800 in wages a year, as now, to the first $5,000.

Thus, in the first full year of the medical program, a person earning at least $5,000 annually would pay an additional $18.50 in Social Security taxes. Those earning less would pay less.

The medical proposal was the feature of Kennedy's message, which also called for spending millions — he didn't say just how much — for improving the nation's health. Major features included:

- Increasing federal grants for building nursing homes and providing money for hospital research and development.
- Training more doctors and dentists. This would involve four-year scholarships up to $2,000 a year for talented medical and dental students who need such financial help. Also, there would be cost-of-education grants of $1,000 to schools to cover non-tuition fee expenses of the scholarship holders.
- Grants to medical schools to plan new teaching facilities, and matching grants to help such schools expand.
- Improving child health. This would involve establishing a national institute of child health and human development to deal, among other things, with the problems of retarded and malformed youngsters. Also, more money for mother and child health care.
- More funds for aiding disabled Americans to lead useful lives.
- Research Grants
- A boost in grants for construction of medical research laboratories and the like, and in federal funds for pushing medical research.

While officials said no firm cost estimates were available for the Kennedy medical care for the aged, they estimated these programs would require about $66 million in new appropriations for the fiscal year starting next July 1, more later.

Some of these programs, such as medical-dental scholarships, would run for 10 years. The Kennedy administration estimates the cost would rise through the first four years, then perhaps level off.

Tougher Months Ahead Seen For U.S. Economy

WASHINGTON (AP) — Experts painted for Congress Thursday a picture of even tougher months ahead for the nation's economy. They predicted things will get better later this year, but complete recovery may not come before 1962.

And there was applause for President Kennedy's go-slow approach in trying to provide government cures for the country's economic aches and pains.

These were the over-all views of a panel of top economists — in industry and government — in testimony before the Senate-House Economic Committee.

Meanwhile, Republican leaders in Congress removed any lingering doubt that Kennedy's economic proposals will have tough sledding. Senate Leader Everett M. Dirksen of Illinois and House Leader Charles A. Halleck of Indiana said some of Kennedy's proposals might "dampen down the recovery process."

They referred specifically to Kennedy's request for raising the present $1-an-hour minimum wage to $1.15 immediately, $1.20 next year and $1.25 in 1963. Halleck said the Republicans would go along only with a boost to $1.15, as the Eisenhower administration did last year.

Halleck said the Republicans would be willing to add about 1.4 million workers to the minimum wage coverage, but would not agree to the 4.3 million Kennedy proposed.

Criticism Plan

Dirksen and Halleck also criticized Kennedy's plan for increasing temporarily unemployment compensation for jobless workers. They objected to the proposed permanent increase in the tax paid by employers to help finance it.

The Senate-House Economic Committee opened a week of hearings on the economic message former President Dwight D. Eisenhower sent to Congress Jan. 18 and on various messages on the economy Kennedy has sent to Capitol Hill.

The tone of the testimony was more in tune with Kennedy's view. He has forecast minor improvements in business this year but said "speaking out of realism, not pessimism, we cannot rule out the possibility of further deterioration if we fail to act."

Eisenhower had predicted that the faltering economy would advance soon into "a period of sound growth."

Experts' Views

Highlights of the views of the five economists:

- Dr. George Cline Smith, vice president and chief economist of the F. W. Dodge Corp., New York construction economists: Conditions are "mushy. A recession is clearly under way and it shows signs of getting worse before it gets better. On the other hand (there is) good reason to expect that the downturn will be reversed before it gets too much deeper."
- Louis Paradiso, Commerce Department economist: Most segments of business feel that demand will be moving downward for a time. Industry's investment in machinery, buildings and equipment is declining "with no current indication of a shift in the trend."
- Roy L. Reiser, vice president and chief economist of the Bankers Trust Co., New York: The economy is "apparently approaching the bottom of the current contraction." But he said credit for mortgage loans and other investments should be ample, helping with recovery in 1961. If the economy turns upward.
- G. E. Brandow, agricultural economist of Pennsylvania State University: Farmers' cash returns from sales will rise 1 or 2 per cent, and they may benefit also from the business slackness holding down the prices of things the farmer buys.
- Could Increase
- Ewan Clague, head of the Labor Department's Bureau of Statistics: "Even when business reaches bottom and starts to turn upward, unemployment could go on increasing for another quarter."
- Walter P. Reuther, head of the United Automobile Workers, urged speedy enactment of Kennedy's proposals for dealing with the economic ills, calling the President's recommendations basically sound.
- But Reuther said they fall short in some respects of what the labor movement believes is necessary to spur the economy. He said Kennedy had advanced "unnecessary and unwise" principles of tax reform, specifically tax incentives for business investment in plant and equipment.

Adenauer, DeGaulle Open Talks On 'Chilly' Note

PARIS (AP) — Chancellor Konrad Adenauer and President Charles de Gaulle opened talks Thursday to improve German-French relations. The official atmosphere was chilly and Adenauer's smile was wintry.

When the West German leader arrived Thursday morning, Premier Michel Debre was not at the airport to meet him. It was explained Debre had a prior appointment.

The chill in relations set in after De Gaulle and Adenauer in their meeting last summer developed what promised to be the warmest French-German friendship in the long history of the two rival powers.

But French warships began searching German freighters and seizing arms the French said were bound for rebels in Algeria. The Germans also viewed with suspicion De Gaulle's plans for a confederation in Europe, suspecting he hoped Paris would dominate it.

MEADVILLE, Pa. (AP) — Thirty-four cars in the rear half of a 123-car freight train derailed Thursday at nearby Sagerstown, blocking two main tracks of the Erie-Lackawanna Railroad. The train was rerouted over other lines while crews worked to clear away the wreckage and repair damaged track.

Kennedy Orders Inspection On Jobless Front

WASHINGTON (AP) — Fresh reports of mounting unemployment in big cities Thursday prompted President Kennedy to order a series of on-the-spot inspections of conditions in the hard-hit areas.

The jobless picture was described as worse than it has been in almost 20 years.

The Labor Department added 49 areas to its list of communities having substantial labor surplus—or an idle rate exceeding 5 per cent. More than half the major industrial areas in the country, or 76 out of 150, are now so classified.

Kennedy directed Secretary of Labor Arthur J. Goldberg to make a series of tours into the trouble spots. The labor secretary will leave Friday on the first, a five-state swing starting in the Midwest.

Goldberg will visit state officials and business and labor leaders and interview idle workers and their families. He will be at Chicago, Gary and South Bend, Ind., and Lansing, Mich., Friday; Detroit and Columbus, Ohio, on Saturday, and Pittsburgh on Sunday.

Some of the biggest cities in the country are among the 25 major labor market areas newly added to the depressed list. They include Philadelphia, Cleveland, Baltimore, Los Angeles, Kansas City and St. Louis.

Politicians Regain Congo Government

LEOPOLDVILLE, the Congo (AP) — The Congo's government was handed back to the politicians Thursday in a move to head off American overtures for a new deal with Patrice Lumumba.

President Joseph Kasavubu formally dismantled the College of Commissioners — the group of university graduates installed by Gen. Joseph Mobutu to run the country last September — and proclaimed a provisional government of parliamentarians. It will serve until Parliament can be summoned, but this may not be for some time.

The new premier is Senate President Joseph Ileo, a soft-spoken, slightly built man of 39. A firm opponent of Lumumba, Ileo nevertheless offered the deposed premier a place in the government once before in a bid to unite the Congo's warring factions.

He now finds himself again as a potential conciliator. In naming the Cabinet, Kasavubu left open six posts — including the vital Defense Ministry — for opponents of Leopoldville in hopes they would rally to the central government.

The offer applies to President Moise Tshombe's secessionist regime in Katanga Province, and the pro-Lumumba rebels who control the northeastern section of the country with Communist help. They would have to agree to support the Leopoldville government.

Ileo was first named premier last September after Kasavubu fired Lumumba, but he was suspended from office along with other politicians when Mobutu seized control. At that time the United States endorsed Ileo.

(A State Department spokesman in Washington termed formation of the new Ileo government "encouraging.")

Remain Unchanged

New York and Chicago remain unchanged from two months ago at 3 to 6 per cent unemployed, while Detroit rose to an idle rate of nearly 12 per cent. Pittsburgh and Flint, Mich., were added to a separate listing of areas where unemployment has been chronic for several years.

Goldberg's initial fact-finding mission will arm the administration with data to present to Congress in support of Kennedy's $1.2-billion emergency plan to aid the long-term unemployed and children of idled workers. Committees will open hearings on these measures next week.

Statistics indicate that nearly one-third of the nation's unemployed are in the five-state area included on Goldberg's first tour. Plans for subsequent trips were not announced.

Other major metropolitan areas added to the substantial unemployment list included Peoria, Ill., Akron, Ohio, Allentown-Bethlehem-Easton, Pa., Asheville, N.C., Corpus Christi, Tex., Flint, Mich., Grand Rapids, Mich., Knoxville, Tenn., Louisville, Ky., Mobile, Ala., Newark, N.J., New Brunswick-Perth Amboy, N.J., Portland, Ore., Savannah, Ga., Tacoma, Wash., Toledo, Ohio, Trenton, N.J., Worcester, Mass., and York, Pa.

Worst Since War II

Seymour Wolfbein, deputy assistant secretary of labor, told newsmen the job situation is the "worst since early World War II."

He gave out details of a January job report of which Kennedy had given highlights earlier.

This shows over-all unemployment in January was 5,385,000 with 1,339,000 idled 15 weeks or longer. The report also showed 1,687,000 normally full-time workers employed only part time.

Employment in January was 64,432,000, a record for the month. Wolfbein said this reflects increased employment in retail and wholesale trade, finance, and in state and federal employment.

But he said the main trouble spot is in the nation's factories where there are nearly 900,000 fewer workers now than a year ago.

On State Highways Department Employees

Lawrence Prefers Patronage Plan

HARRISBURG (AP) — Gov. David L. Lawrence indicated Thursday he prefers to keep the state's highway employment practices on a political patronage basis.

"I have no plan to change the rules," Lawrence told his weekly news conference. "I don't want to change the rules in the middle of the game."

His statements were in reply to a question whether the governor favored outlawing politics in dispensing highway jobs.

Lawrence said he "never knew of Republicans doing that" when they controlled the state administration.

Lawrence also told newsmen the Highway Department should not be "saddled" with snow removal in communities unless there is an emergency situation.

Local Government

The burden of paying for local snow removal "should be on local governments to run their own affairs."

The snow removal question also led to one on the current prospects of floods in the coming months.

"Everybody is ready for it," the governor declared. "But we are not nearly so worried about the snow on the ground as the ice in the rivers."

Lawrence said he understood that the moisture content of snow now on the ground is not so great as in 1936 when Pennsylvania was stricken by major floods.

Other news conference developments:

- Mansion: The governor denied that the General State Authority allocated $2 million for a new executive mansion.
- "It was merely a suggestion and nothing was allocated," he said. "I'd be perfectly satisfied to accept Martin's (former Gov. Edward Martin's) suggestion for an addition at Indiantown Gap."
- Denies Rush
- He said he didn't know enough about building costs to comment on a new mansion to $100,000.
- Highways Program — Lawrence denied Republican suggestions that the 2-cent gas tax and other highway bills were "rushed" through the legislature.
- "This isn't a matter that was just dropped into the hopper," he said.
- "It's been discussed for years. We tried to get an increase in revenues last time (in 1959)."
- Lawrence said there hasn't been "a real drive" to improve highways since the administration of Gov. Gifford Pinchot in 1931-35.
- Reading Election — Lawrence said he thought the Democratic candidate in a special election for the state House of Representatives in Reading was defeated because of interparty battling.
- "It was the result of a very bitter factional fight over the nomination," he said. "The organization simply didn't function. Only 20 per cent of the voters turned out."

French Jets Fire On Soviet Plane

ALGIERS, Algeria (AP) — French jet fighters fired warning shots Thursday around a four-engine Soviet plane carrying Soviet President Leonid Brezhnev and other high officials on a goodwill visit to West Africa.

The Soviet government in Moscow made a vigorous protest, charging the attack took place 80 miles out over the Mediterranean and was a case of "international banditism."

The French said the big turbo-prop airliner, pride of the Soviet civilian air fleet, failed to respond to radio challenges and was intercepted off Algeria by three Vautour fighters in the "zone of French responsibility."

Brezhnev, 54, was not harmed although he may have had a few exciting minutes.

On Schedule

His plane, apparently unscathed, arrived on schedule at Rabat, capital of Morocco, and Brezhnev was welcomed by King Mohammed V and thousands of robed men and veiled women.

A spokesman with his party at first reported an untroubled flight. But later, after Moscow radio had announced the protest, the spokesman said the Ilyushin had been "buzzed and attacked."

Brezhnev made no comment.

For months the French have maintained a tight air and sea blockade in the Mediterranean to prevent shipments of arms and munitions to the Algerian Rebels.

The stopping and seizure of freighters allegedly carrying arms has brought irate protests from German, Yugoslav and other shipping interests.

Soviet Foreign Minister Andrei Gromyko, in a vigorous statement and protest handed to French Charge d'Affaires Jean de la Grandville in Moscow, charged the "blatantly provocative nature" of the incident was all the more obvious because the Soviet plane established radio contact with Algerians airport shortly before.

French authorities previously had been informed of the flight, he contended, and the plane was flying at about 27,000 feet in mid-afternoon when it suddenly was attacked.

He said a twin-engine jet fighter swooshed "dangerously close" three times, cut across the path of the big airliner and fired on it on two of its three passes.

Gromyko demanded the punishment of those responsible.

It was hours before French authorities confirmed there had been such an incident.

Bill Asks Compact On River

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sens. Joseph S. Clark, D-Pa., and Clifford P. Case, R-N.J., Thursday introduced a bill for creation of a four-state water resources commission in which the federal government would be a partner.

The bill is similar to one introduced in the House by Rep. Francis E. Walter, D-Pa.

It provides for a federal-state agency to develop the resources of the Delaware River and provide flood control measures along the river in New York, Pennsylvania, New Jersey and Delaware.

Governors of the four states already have approved the measure and it will be presented to each state legislature.

Listed a cosponsor of the Senate bill were all other senators from the four states, including Sen. J. Caleb Boggs, R-Del., who as governor of his state had participated in drafting the compact.

MM's Condition Conflicting

NEW YORK (AP) — Movie star Marilyn Monroe's psychiatric treatment Thursday created a flurry of conflicting reports about her condition. One had it that she was merely resting, while another described her as "highly disturbed."

At the Payne Whitney Psychiatric Clinic of New York Hospital-Cornell Medical Center, would say only that she was admitted Sunday for treatment of "an illness of undetermined origin" and that her condition was satisfactory.

Ice Thickness Cuts Flood Potential

THE extra thickness of the ice in the Delaware River this year lessens the flood potential, rather than increases it, in the opinion of a veteran riverman.

Edward Denzler, chief engineer for the Delaware River Joint Toll Commission with offices at Morrisville, explained his views yesterday in a telephone conversation with The Daily Record.

He said he is keeping a close watch on developments throughout the basin, but he is not alarmed by the heavy ice in the river or by the deep snow cover in the watershed.

In the first place, Denzler explained, the thicker the ice, the longer it will take it to melt to a point where it will break up under pressure from upstream such as would happen in the event of heavy rains or a warm spell.

And, until the ice breaks up and starts moving downstream, there can be no danger of jams occurring at shallow points along the river.

Runoff

As long as the ice remains intact, the river can carry off a heavy amount of runoff from melting snow and ice and from moderate rainfalls, Denzler said.

He agreed with the Army Corps of Engineers and Robert Fish, deputy rivermaster at Milford, that serious flooding could occur if rapid melting and heavy rain combined to cause the ice to break up and jam.

Queried about the 1936 flood, when conditions were similar to those today, Denzler cited the fact that there is one big difference that no doubt would serve as a flood deterrent.

His reference was to the thickness of the ice then as compared with now. Presently, he said, the ice is 15-20 inches thick in the lower reaches of the river, and 24 to 31 inches thick farther upstream.

In the damaging flood of 25 years ago, Denzler recalled, the ice was only about half that thick before a warming period and heavy rains started it to disintegrate and move part-way downstream.

Ice jams formed and caused the strong surge of flood waters to overflow the countryside, causing heavy losses.

Permits Moving

Lack of jams permits the flood waters to move rapidly downstream, unhampered, Denzler said.

The commission operates 19 bridges, including five toll spans, across the river from Trenton, N.J., north to Milford, Pa.

Denzler's comments came on the heels of a report from the Federal-State Food Forecasting Service, Harrisburg, which said ice poses a greater flood threat than snow cover in the Delaware, Susquehanna and Monongahela River basins.

"Extreme melting conditions of the snow alone will not cause serious flooding," the report said. "A combination of rapid melting and heavy rain could cause widespread flooding," however.

Weaver Approved As Housing Head

WASHINGTON (AP) — Urged on to speedy action by President Kennedy, the Senate Thursday night confirmed Robert C. Weaver, New York Negro, as federal housing administrator.

The action climaxed several hours of debate in which Weaver, 53, was described by critics as a zealot for integrated housing and by supporters as a dedicated American who will do a fine job.

Weaver's nomination for the $21,000-a-year job was the first of Kennedy's selections for high government posts to encounter any major Senate opposition. Confirmation, however, was by voice vote.

Most of the opposition was based on what Sen. A. Willis Robertson, D-Va., called Weaver's "extreme views" in favor of racially integrated housing.

Southern senators contended that builders in their sections would refuse to develop housing projects with Weaver in command of federal programs.

Charges of subversive associations raised against the nominee at Senate Banking Committee hearings were renewed in the debate, although Robertson, chairman of the committee, indicated he accepted Kennedy's statement that Weaver had undergone a full FBI investigation.

Supporters of the nominee called these charges smears.

Weaver acknowledged he once had been a member of the Washington Cooperative Bookshop, described by Sen. James O. Eastland, D-Miss., as "the Communist headquarters in Washington." But he told the committee he resigned when he became suspicious of the leadership. He said he had joined only to take advantage of book sale discounts.

Eastland Charges

Eastland described Weaver as "a man who has a pro-Communist background" and who "belonged to half a dozen Communist front organizations."

He said Weaver, in testimony before the Banking Committee, offered "pretexts and excuses that he didn't know, that he didn't understand."

"Can we afford to confirm a man who was so naive that he doesn't realize he was doing business with the Communists over a number of years?" Eastland demanded.

One Killed, 75 Hurt In Train Crash

GALION, Ohio (AP) — An Erie-Lackawanna Railroad passenger train slammed into a truck just east of here Thursday. One woman was killed and 75 other persons were injured as four of the cars turned over and four others jumped the track.

The dead woman was identified as Mrs. Gustaf Roemer, an Indonesian, one of a group of 40 displaced persons on the train going west to be resettled.

Crawford County Coroner Bernard P. Mansfield said Mrs. Roemer died of a fractured skull. She was hurled through a window and under the dining car of the train.

Of the injured only seven were admitted to Community Hospital here. Included were the driver of the truck, Wesley Weimer of Wellington, Ohio, and a passenger in his truck, Oscar Lee, also of Wellington.

The engineer, H. P. Walter of Marion, Ohio, said the truck, loaded with eggs pulled out onto the tracks. He said he sounded his horn but could not stop in time.

Walker said he was running about 90 minutes behind schedule because he had been delayed by another derailment in Pennsylvania.

The displaced persons were among 105 on the train including a crew of six. The 40 displaced were from several European countries and the Far East.

You CAN Get Better Grades—X

To Solve Problems Readily,
Concentrate And Be PreciseBy Leslie J. Nason, Ed. D.
with Harry Karns

Now let's talk about solving problems.

Your mind is a wonderful thing. It will solve problems of surprising complexity, if you feed it the necessary facts and ideas and give it the chance to operate at its top efficiency.

So few persons do. They are satisfied with half measures, or, if dissatisfied, do not know how to do better. Mental laziness is a pitfall to some students. They memorize a single process for solving a problem and try to apply it to all problems.

Such students don't get the exact knowledge which is the foundation for any real learning. They have not been taught to care.

The time usually comes when they do care — and when they painfully regret the wasted years.

To be a good student you must develop the habit of giving complete attention to the task. Your thinking must be precise, persistent. You must know exactly what is meant and not be satisfied with partial or approximate ideas.

You must completely understand principles. It is not sufficient to know just enough to get the homework done.

The Principle of Principles
Many students in our class in algebra have said that the process of solving a problem is clear enough when it is demonstrated in the classroom. But, just a few hours later at home, the same sort of problem is not simple but baffling. Why?

The answer is that they understand the solution of the specific problem, but they do not grasp the principles involved. They have failed to exert the energy to think the problem through in words.

Since we are going to use this word "principle" often in the next dozen or so paragraphs, let's pause briefly and think about what a principle is.

If you know what two plus two is, you know the answer, to a specific problem. If that is the only addition problem you can answer, however, you haven't grasped the principle of addition. If you know how to solve not only two plus two but also four plus four and six plus six, and anything plus anything, you know the principle of addition. While there is something different about all these problems of addition, there is something fundamentally alike in the way the answer of each is obtained. When you find that, you know the principle.

Let's keep in mind something mentioned once before. The device of talking things out by yourself. This device is vital in the solving of problems.

Mary told us she understood how to do long division in class but forgot before reaching home. We started to explain long division again. Mary reached for her notebook and started copying the simple problem.

Try It Step By Step
"Put the notebook aside," we told her, "and think in words instead. Think of the explanation as general directions which you can apply to any problem in long division, not just this problem."

Step by step we explained the principles of long division. She understood each step in words. She went home, worked problems involving different numbers but the same principles—and worked them correctly.

To understand the principle is to own a skeleton key to the doors of a whole house of knowledge. And the best way to hold the principle in mind is to think in words.

Pete was a junior at the university. His major was math. He did all his homework easily, but his exam grades pushed him down to a "C" for the course.

Actually, he grasped math processes rather quickly. He was a potential math genius. As he had said, getting the homework—the work of one day on one particular kind of problem—was easy. But on the exams, when the professor threw a mixed group of new problems at him, he performed like a fast ball hitter coming up against a pitcher who tosses curves and sinkers.

We suggested that when he prepared for a test, he skim through materials covered recently and ask:

1. "What principles were used in the solution of these exercises?"

2. What problems may be solved through the use of these principles?"

3. "What is the cue that would indicate that these principles should be recalled in working a problem?"

4. "How does this fit in with what I already know?"

We suggested that when he prepared for a test, he skim through materials covered recently and ask:

1. "What principles have been used to solve these problems?"

2. "How do I recognize the situation in which they may be used?"

This deliberate, precise thinking about math, in place of the vague, hit-and-miss method he'd followed before, produced the "A's" which Pete should have been making all along.

(TOMORROW: More about how to solve problems.)

Sewage
Plant
Approved

BANGOR — Bangor Area Joint School Committee approved plans for the sewage treatment plant at the new senior high school and complaints on the recent fire hazard repairs were returned to area boards for review.

Bangor and Portland were granted the use of district owned buses for pupil transportation for the 1961-62 school term. A policy for music awards was approved and elementary choruses were granted use of old graduation gowns.

Rejected

The recommendation of the athletic committee that David Pritchard, head football coach, be assigned duties as equipment manager was rejected by the board and referred to the activities committee for study.

It was announced that it is expected that the high school enrollment will be near the 1,000 mark for next year.

Concerts
Planned
In Bangor

BANGOR—A concert series, with promotions in the spring and fall, is considered by the Kiwanis Club. The proposal is designed to contribute to the cultural life of the community and to provide funds for charitable work conducted by the club.

Other activities for the year also were studied at a recent meeting. Resumption of the Farmer's Night program was discussed. Service to both youth and senior citizens is being weighed, too. Announcements will be made as plans are developed.

Committee Chairmen

Committee chairmen were appointed by Anthony Trigliani, president. Included are: The Rev. Bert Taylor, tentative membership; Clair H. Peilly, public and business affairs; Joseph H. Beers, agriculture and conservation; the Rev. Tapley, support of churches; James Drury, vocational guidance.

Firemen
Put Out Fire

STROUD Township volunteer firemen were called to the Boushell Apartments, Stokes Ave., at 3:05 p.m. yesterday. Fire Chief Lester Rice, first man at the scene, extinguished the blaze before it was necessary to use any truck equipment.

Rice said water from melting snow traveling through a conduit caused a short circuit in an outlet box under the second floor porch at the rear of the building. He extinguished the blaze by pulling loose the shorted wire.

Rice said five families live in the building. There was only slight damage.

Facts And Figures On U.S. Crime Startles Dutch Treat

By BOBBY WESTBROOK

THE Mafia may not exist as the mysterious and rumored international organization of master criminals, but the facts and figures of advancing organized crime in the United States was more startling than fiction to the members of the Dutch Treat Club who attended the meeting at the Penn-Stroud Hotel last night.

Even more startling was the charge that they, themselves, are in large measure responsible for that growth.

The speaker was Donal MacNamara, dean of the New York Institute of Criminal Investigation, who has had personal contact with law enforcement agencies and criminals all over the United States and abroad.

Organized crime is in itself a contradiction, he said, since the criminal is not a social being, but it is a phenomena of increasing concern here where citizens pay tribute to organized crime syndicates to the tune of 20 billion dollars a year.

Spreading Out
Moreover, the syndicates are spreading out; corrupting government and investing in legitimate enterprises where they apply criminal methods of cutting down competition.

Historically, organized crime has flourished only when the government was weak, corrupt and inefficient, he said, listing the Thugs of India; the Tongs of China; the Mafia and Camari of Italy; and the Dawson and other gangs in the United States which sprang up after the Mexican War and the Civil War.

While three of the four major crime syndicates in the United States are officered by Italians or those of Italian descent, and while they may have adapted the criminal practices of "the shake-down" kidnapping and buying political influence from the Mafia of Sicily or the Camari of Naples, they are not connected, he said.

"American crime syndicates are a local phenomena which grew up to meet local needs: liquor during prohibition, and now gambling, narcotics and prostitution. In order to exist, they need customers," he charged.

"We can't pass the buck by pretending that they are controlled by abroad. We must solve the problem here."

In outlining the problem he discussed the four major syndicates, the largest of which has its headquarters in New York with narcotic smuggling and distribution, and gambling as specialties, he said.

However, he warned that they are investing now in trucking companies, the garment industry, cabarets and import and export trades, eliminating competition by the traditional gangster methods.

Specializes
Chicago syndicate specializes in gambling and prostitution. The Detroit syndicate is highly specialized, the financial bookmaker's bookmaker. The little known Chinese Syndicate with headquarters in San Francisco specializes in smuggling narcotics and aliens.

Connected with the loosely are some 100 local syndicates in most cities in the nation.

These facts are of general public knowledge, he said, having been publicized in a series of investigations including those made by Senators Kefauver, Daniels and McClelland, all of whom have made strong recommendations about how they could be controlled.

"NO NATION can defend itself on the world stage unless it is internally strong," he warned, "and this insidious spread of organized crime is more dangerous than organized communism."

Steps to control organized crime he listed as:

(1) Reducing the number of law enforcement agencies, some 40,000 of them, many of which duplicate or even compete against each other.

Concentrate Efforts
(2) Concentrating their efforts on a particular factor at one time such as the 500 most important gangsters rather than dissipating it in such tasks as rounding up over-due book borrowers.

(3) Studying the needs which they are supplying and considering whether legalized control of such things as gambling and narcotics might be effective by cutting off the income with which they are invading commerce and industry, bribing courts and corrupting politicians.

(4) Public support. "There are 300,000 law enforcement officers in the United States and at most 3,000 organized gangsters," he said.

"They could be controlled and would be if Americans didn't have a higher tolerance for crime and corruption than any other people in the world," he said.

His talk provoked an unusual number of questions from the floor. Dr. Robert Brown presided at the meeting when further contributions from the members present insured the appearance of the next Dutch Treat Speaker, William Wedgewood on March 9.

E-burg Board Grants Leave To Teacher

EAST Stroudsburg Area Joint School Committee voted last night to grant a leave of absence to one teacher and accept the resignation of the secretary of the senior high school.

Mrs. Verna Dennis, teacher in Middle Smithfield School, was granted a leave of absence effective March 1. She requested from March 1 until the end of the school year.

The letter of resignation was from Dorothy A. Gerhart, secretary of the senior high school.

In other business, the committee approved four recommendations of Supervisor Carl Secor.

The recommendations were to grant permission to the East Stroudsburg American Drum and Bugle Corps the use of the stadium in August for a drum and bugle corps competition.

Grant the DeMolay Chapter of East Stroudsburg permission to use the old gym to play a basketball game; and to give consent to the high school band to appear in a concert at the East Stroudsburg American Legion Memorial Hall.

Half of the proceeds from the concert are to be returned to the band, he pointed out.

The last recommendation was to advertise for supplies needed by the jointure for the school year of 1961-62.

A report from Business Manager Tilghman Courtwright was read on the costs to date for snow removal. The amount paid was $365.

Dr. Shafer At 'Coins Trial'

A STRODSBURG physician served on the Annual Assay Commission which met Wednesday at the U.S. Mint in Philadelphia for the traditional "trial of the coins."

The unusual honor came to Dr. Floyd W. Shafer, of Stroudsburg RD 2, who was one of 15 commissioners appointed by President Kennedy to take part in the tests.

The commission is one of the oldest institutions of the government, having been provided for in the same statute that established the mint on April 2, 1792, and assembled regularly since that time.

Its function is to make tests of coins, taken at random from the two operating mints in Philadelphia and Denver during the preceding year, to determine whether they conform in weight and fineness to legal requirements.

During each year one silver coin from every delivery of 10,000 made at each of the two mints is taken out for test by the commission. The official weights used in the annual tests were calibrated at the Bureau of Standards in Washington, D.C., and taken to Philadelphia.

3 Committees
The commission was divided into three working committees for counting, weighing and assaying. Dr. Shafer served on the latter committee, which reported that the results of assays on individual coins and mass melts of coins were satisfactory, being well within the limits of tolerance, which is six-thousandths for silver coins. Similar satisfactory reports were returned by the weighing and counting committees.

Dr. Shafer and John E. Power, Philadelphia, were the only Pennsylvanians among the 12 regular members of the commission, whose personnel was drawn from all sections of the country.

Chief Judge J. Cullen Ganey of the U.S. District Court for Eastern Pennsylvania, is an ex-officio member of the committee, as are Ray M. Gidney, U.S. comptroller of the currency, and Howard F. Johnson, chief assayer, U.S. Assay Office, New York.

The appointees served without pay. As a memento of the occasion, each was presented a large bronze medal featuring a bust of Thomas Jefferson modeled when he was serving as president of the United States.

Annual Lincoln Day Fete Will Feature Pickpocket

A PROFESSIONAL pickpocket will provide the entertainment Saturday night at the annual Lincoln Day dinner of the Monroe County Republican Committee.

The dinner, which will start at 7 p.m., will be held at the Penn-Stroud Hotel.

The entertainer is Prince Hara, billed as the Thief of Baghdad and well known to television viewers for his appearance on the Ed Sullivan show. He creates unusually funny situations by removing wrist watches, wallets, money, keys and other sundry articles from members of his audience.

Heart Research Proclaimed

TODAY, has been proclaimed by Gov. David Lawrence as Heart Research Day in Pennsylvania.

The proclamation, honoring the men and women whose tireless efforts in cardiovascular investigation are making medical miracles possible, was witnessed by Dr. Allen W. Cowley, Harrisburg, president-elect of the Pennsylvania Heart Association, and Miles Bostic, Mechanicsburg, Heart Ambassador.

Just a year ago a congenital defect in the interatrial septum was threatening the life of Master Bostic. In March, 1960, he underwent corrective heart surgery. Today he is an energetic, handsome, three-year-old with a bright future before him.

He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. William Bostic, 112 Windsor Drive, Mechanicsburg.

A decade ago heart surgery was unknown. Rheumatic fever waged war with young hearts and a diagnosis of "heart disease" carried an ominous ring. Increased knowledge about diagnosis and treatment, improved tools, new drugs, new techniques, are dispelling fears and offering hope. Rheumatic fever can be prevented. The heart can be stopped while repair work is done inside the heart. The blue baby is a rarity; most cardiacs now return to work, thanks to studies in these fields.

Van Yetter Bill Co-sponsor

HARRISBURG—Rep. Van D. Yetter (D-Monroe) is co-sponsor of a House bill which would set aside 25 percent of the proceeds from sales of timber of other forest products from state-owned lands for the local county and municipalities.

Another 25 percent would be earmarked for statewide promotion of timberland and reforestation areas.

chairman, said the annual affair will honor the memory of the late Tom Waring, last year's chairman and an active worker in the party.

Guests To Be Introduced
Rep. James E. Van Zandt, fiery congressman from Warren's native Blair County, will deliver the main address. He was the featured speaker at a GOP dinner here several years ago.

Parke W. Unangst, Monroe County Republican chairman, will introduce a number of prominent guests, including State Sen. and Mrs. William Z. Scott; George Bloom, state GOP chairman; Craig Truax, secretary of the state committee; William Wyatt, Carbon County chairman, and Woodrow Horn of Easton, candidate for Congress last November.

Thomas made a preliminary check of ticket sales yesterday and reported that well over 100 had been sold. Not all committeemen and women were contacted for a report on sales he said.

Thomas said a limited number of tickets still remain on sale today. They may be purchased from committee people and from Mrs. John Shinn, ticket chairman.

Fonny Fontanella will serve as toastmaster at the dinner. Music will be furnished by Tommy Cullen's orchestra.

Firm, 6 Men Feed Deer

HARRY Williams, Saylorburg RD, donated 36 bales of feed for the deer and the Patterson-Kelly Co. donated the use of one of its trucks equipped with a snow plow to distribute the feed.

Five sportsmen traveled the roads from Marshalls Creek to Bushkill placing the feed in various places.

Those placing the feed were Charles LaBadie Sr., Charles LaBadie Jr., Larry Dildine, Dick Smith and Bill Metzgar.

E-burg Exchange Session Monday

EAST STRODSBURG Exchange club will meet Monday at 6:30 p.m. at East Stroudsburg Methodist Church.

Thomas Willis, formerly with International Telephone and Telegraph Co., will be the speaker. He will discuss laying of trans-Atlantic telephone cables.

The program is in charge of Thomas Kistler and the George Junior Republic Committee.

Two Approaches

Even when the economy isn't "moving forward," it is a half-trillion dollar a year affair. Even in the doldrums of 1960, capital investment amounted to around $20 billion. While sufficient to reach a level of more jobs than the U.S. ever had before, it wasn't enough to prevent a high level of unemployment.

In this light, it is hard to regard the Administration anti-recession program as impressive, even if it were headed surely in the right direction.

It is difficult to see how a dribble of dividends on veterans' insurance policies, advanced a few months, could make much difference. Taking money from some to pay more Social Security benefits to others creates no new wealth. Extending benefits to the jobless may ease hardships, but will make no approach to solving the economy's problems.

The Douglas depressed area redevelopment bill would spend $400 million in three years luring industry from one area to another, making jobs one place at the expense of the other.

And while that $400 million will be another straw on the taxpayer's burdened back, its insignificance on the scene is suggested by the knowledge that even if things get no better, routine private investment would be $60 billion—150 times as much—in the same period.

It's cruel to raise hopes with such a bill, which would average a mere $1 million in aid for each of 400 acres—a drop in the bucket—when industrial jobs require about $20,000 capital each.

Instead, the Administration should lift the stifling burden of high tax rates which impede private capital formation. The Herlong-Baker bill, designed to do this with fairness to all, is waiting to go to work—when Washington eventually awakens fully to its merit.

Invitation To Industry

In 1961, as in every other year for more than a generation, every civic organization will be striving with might and main to attract new industries.

Leaders of chambers of commerce and other such organizations will continue to find themselves facing stiff competition and often will discover that the odds are stacked against them. For, where is there a community that doesn't want more jobs for its people? Some of them have a great deal to offer—in fact much more than we have.

One of the weaknesses of our communities is that they have failed to make themselves as attractive as they might be. The kind of attractiveness to which we refer includes many things. Among them are wholesome and constructive labor attitudes, good schools, local government that is honest, efficient and progressive, effective law enforcement, freedom from organized crime, good recreational and cultural failities and modern housing in neighborhoods that are well planned.

These we believe, are the main attractions to new industry. And if we don't have them or are not working as earnestly toward them as we should, we are unlikely to get any plants, no matter what we do.

Industry can pick and choose in finding locations for new plants. No corporation is going to invest hundreds of thousands or millions of dollars in plant facilities in any community that is lacking in the basic essentials.

You are a resident of the Alle-Kiski Valley and you are vitally concerned in its future. What do you think ought to be done that isn't being done toward attracting new plants? To help your thinking, ask yourself if you would place a new plant in this area if you had the power to do so. If you would, why would you? If you wouldn't, why?

George Sokolsky Says . . .

Kennedy Appointments

It is beginning to be possible to see the form of the Kennedy Administration. There is an obvious emphasis on professors not only from Harvard but from other universities.

A professor may or may not be an intellectual, which is a European term for those who are devoted to the humanities. Our professors are usually narrow experts in some one particular branch of human knowledge. They are technicians rather than philosophers.

On the whole, it might be said that the Kennedy Administration at this moment includes very few conservatives. The trend is to return to the personnel of the Truman Administration. The State Department is an excellent example of that.

President Kennedy did not know Dean Rusk when he decided to appoint him Secretary of State. Who recommended Dean Rusk, I do not know. It could have been one of many men, even Dean Acheson. At any rate, Dean Rusk came out of the old State Department where he was director of the Office of United Nations Affairs. He belongs to that group, those who saw service in World War II, who thought that Alger Hiss was a genius, who believed that Chinese were agrarian reformers and who were regarded as soft on Russia.

Years have passed. Rusk may have toughened up. He may turn out to be a strong Secretary of State. But those who do not want a soft policy toward Soviet Russia or Red China will keep their fingers crossed.

Under him is Chester B. Bowles, who came out of the business world to be a statesman. He had been a very successful huckster and no matter how hard he tries to look like an egghead, he remains Madison Avenue.

He has been Governor of Connecticut; he has been in the House of Representatives; he has been Ambassador to India. He ran the OPA. Few men have had such a varied career and survived to continue the variations. From every standpoint he is the most experienced man in the State Department.

What does Chester Bowles believe? This is a problem for the psychologist rather than for the politician. A huckster, if he gets the account, will swear that Fab is better than Wisk or vice versa.

Does such a man cast aside his loyalties to the client and have some for his soul? Chester Bowles once advocated a two Chinas policy but now seems not to believe in that. He had never been soft on Russia. Take it one way or the other, if the President has a strong policy, Bowles will carry it forward effectively.

George W. Ball, the Kennedy economic affairs, is a lawyer who served under Secretary of the Treasury Henry Morgenthau, Jr. in the Roosevelt Administration. In 1962, he headed the Volunteers for Stevenson.

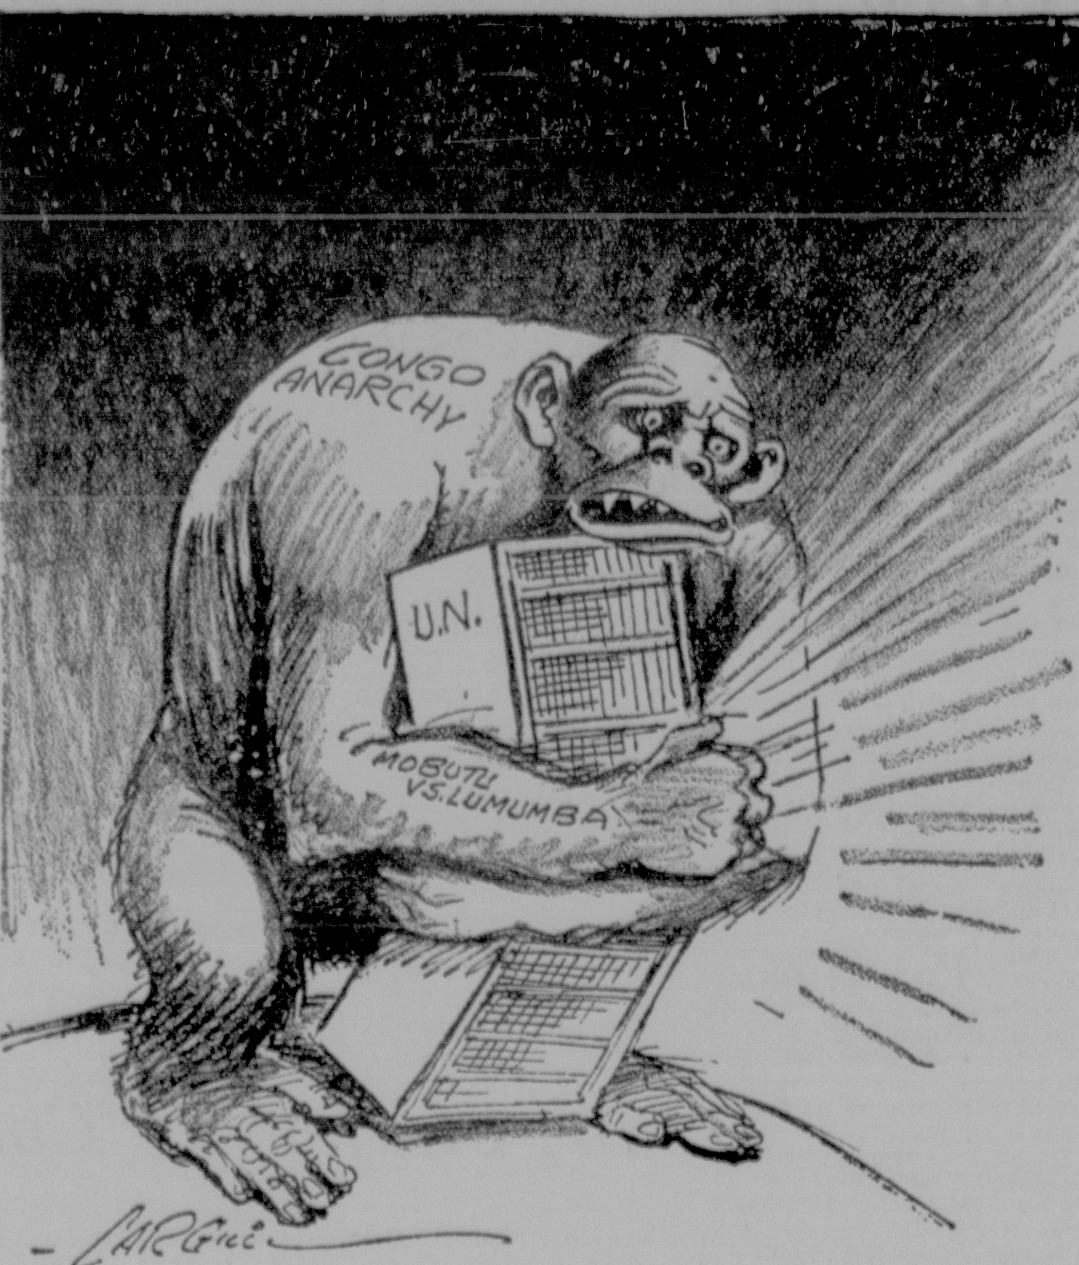

Roger Warren Jones, who is the deputy under secretary of state for administration, has been with the Bureau of the Budget; he was Assistant Director of the Budget during the Truman Administration; he was chairman of the Civil Service Commission during the Eisenhower Administration. He is what in Great Britain is respectfully called a permanent official.

John Jay McCloy, director of the United States Disarmament Administration, has had an enormous experience both in public life and in banking. He is a lawyer. He has been Chairman of the Board of the Chase Manhattan Bank, one of the largest in the world. He was assistant secretary of war under Roosevelt; president of the World Bank; high commissioner for Germany and chairman of the Ford Foundation.

Gerhard Mennen Williams, famous as "Soapy" Williams, is best known as governor of Michigan. Adlai Stevenson, as everybody knows, twice ran for President and was defeated. He has been governor of Illinois and served in the Agriculture Adjustment Administration when that housed a leftist group. He also was in the State Department and was assistant to Secretary of Navy Knox.

Averell Harriman is a man of enormous experience both in business and in politics. He has been governor of the State of New York, ambassador to Soviet Russia and to Great Britain; secretary of commerce and has functioned in other positions. He is President Kennedy's ambassador-at-Large, whatever that may mean.

This then is the top echelon of the State Department. It cannot be described as all liberal or all intellectual, or all theoretic-

The Pennsylvania Story

No Default

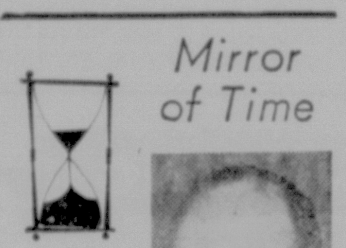

By Mason Denison
Harrisburg — Reporter's Notebook:

After You Alfonso! — One of the more interesting past-times around Capitol Hill is watching the manner in which political adversaries trade blows (verbal, that is) — the inevitable feuding between the "ins" and the "outs," in the present case in-office Democrats versus out-of-office Republicans.

A good illustration of this political buffoonery developed this week. . . . We'll leave it to stalwart Pennsylvanians to decide who is right.

It started with Republican State Chairman George I. Bloom asserting that funds to pay Pennsylvania's jobless workers — the State Unemployment Compensation Fund — "would be exhausted before the end of 1961."

Into the arena the next day

10 Years Ago

An old railroad coach used as a bunk house for railroad crews of the D. L. & W. was destroyed by fire. Stroud Township firemen worked hard to keep the fire from spreading to the roundhouse which was only three feet away from the burning car.

Earl F. Groner was awarded the Silver Beaver, scouting's highest award, at ceremonies in Easton.

44 Monroe County teachers were certified at the completion of an art workshop conducted in Stroudsburg High School.

Tickets were placed on sale for a special game between the VFW basketball team and the All-American Red Heads. The red heads were a girls' team that played men's rules on the court.

20 Years Ago

Two New York State women were injured when their car slid on icy pavement in Delaware Water Gap. Both were taken to the Monroe County General Hospital for treatment.

Stroudsburg and East Stroudsburg residents reportedly feeling an earth tremor. After checking it was learned that an earthquake had been recorded in California and felt across the entire nation.

It was announced by the commanding officer of Co. "G" that the company may be picked to become a ski troop.

How many remember In 1921 when a committee from East Stroudsburg Council went to Harrisburg to seek state aid for paving Washington and N. Courtland Street.

jumped Democratic administration stalwart William L. Batt, Jr., state secretary of labor and industry (under whose jurisdiction distribution of UC funds falls) to assert that not only would the UC fund NOT be exhausted but that "the fund will show a balance of $80 million" at the end of the year, to which he added this tail-twister: "This will be $10 million above our balance at the end of last year."

Who's right and who's wrong? . . . By the end of the year the prognostication of both will have been forgotten — but meanwhile for those near-half-million jobless Pennsylvanians drawing UC payments and those who later may need them, the kernel of concern has been sown — concern that on the basis of past experience is unwarranted.

The fact is that Pennsylvania has yet to default on the UC program — and there is little reason to believe it will this year, or as one wag put it, "even if it means bankrupting Pennsylvania employers!" (who pay the entire UC fund bill).

High cost of fluff — When you see a State Department of Highways plow pushing aside white fluff along Pennsylvania's 41,000-mile state highway system, rest assured it's costing a pretty penny!

It may come as a surprise to many but the fact is that "winter traffic service" — that is, snow removal, abrasives and rentals for snow removal equipment — is the most costly single item in the Department of Highways road maintenance budget!

And this year with an unprecedented snow cover, the cost is running sky-high (as are some of the snow bank) . . . For example, the department allocated around $43,000,000 for last winter and this winter and by Jan. 20 (not including the big snow last week end) had spent or committed roughly $39,000,000, leaving little more than $4,000,000 in the fund — and, as one department official wailed, two of the worst months of the current winter are yet to come!

"Dead" issue. — Cemetery people throughout Pennsylvania are coming to life — not the people therein, of course, but those who run cemeteries throughout the Keystone State, represented by such trade organizations as the Pennsylvania Cemetery Association, Keystone State Association of Cemeteries, etc.

They are not complaining of business conditions as such, nor are they insisting on any federal or state "pump-priming" to help a sagging economy . . . Their point, expressed in pleas to the Governor and legislative leaders, is this:

Pennsylvania farmers are exempt from paying the liquid fuels tax on fuel used in farm equipment and machinery — and the cemeteries (that is, the operators) feel they are entitled to the same privilege for fuel used in the operation of lawn mowers, mechanical grave diggers, snow plows, trucks and such equipment used within the cemeteries, which in their own words, "has nothing to do with gasoline used for highway travel."

Maybe the issue is a "live" one!

Off The Record

This is only a suggestion but it certainly has its good points, maybe it would be possible to change the nickname of East Stroudsburg State College from "Normal Hill" to "College Hill."

This man also suggested that possibly East Stroudsburg Council might change Normal St. to College St.

Rudy Manheim, the gentleman who always has his mind functioning in the best interests of the community, bases his thoughts on a couple of points. First and foremost Rudy says, "After-all we now have a college on the hill. Not just a teachers or normal school."

"In this modern day and age we have to go ahead with the times. The wordage normal school went out with the bloomer girls," Manheim points out.

The East Stroudsburg businessman notes that we all know about the recent drop of "teachers" from the wording identifying ESSC.

Manheim feels the switch to "college" will add prestige to the territory and remove the area from the so-called past stage.

"Let's face it," Rudy said, "We have here one of the best educational plants in the state and from all indications it will be the best before too long."

"We're not exactly honoring the college but telling the community and visitors we have a college on the hill and a darn good one at that," Rudy says. There is good merit in Manheim's suggestion and worthy of consideration by the powers-to-be. However, there are probably many who feel we have gone all this time with "Normal Hill" and Normal St., why change now?

But in rebuttal the school is no longer a two-year educational system but an institution which in the near future will be offering Masters Degree, just one step below the university level.

We should follow the trail Manheim has outlined to keep up with the "New Frontiers."

Stories Which Fascinate:

An American Negro Minister who has just returned from West Africa says that Moslems are making thousands of converts in that area because they'll accept polygamy whereas the Christian churches forbid it as a sin.

To many West Africans, says the minister, polygamy is a matter of economics. One wife means one acre of land that can be tilled, two wives mean two acres can be tilled. It is really not too difficult to understand if you translate it to: One wife means a short driveway to be shoveled. Long driveway . . .

The Allen-Scott Report

Bailey Opposed

By Robert S. Allen and Paul Scott

Washington — Democratic National Chairman John Bailey's ambitious plan to "absorb" the Senate and House campaign committees of his party — and thus center control of their electioneering activities under him — is getting nowhere in a big way.

Speaker Sam Rayburn and other top House leaders are emphatically against it; and Senate Democratic leaders, while less outspoken, are equally opposed.

Bailey, who became National Chairman only a few weeks ago, still has hopes for his grandiose proposal. But just about a miracle will be necessary to put it over, and none appears in sight.

Two factors are at the bottom of this: (1) The $3 million debt hanging over the National Committee from last year's campaign, plus another $1 million Bailey says he needs to run it this year. To congressional campaign leaders, these heavy obligations portend little prospect of much financial help from the National Committee in their all-important election battles next year.

(2) The deeply ingrained reluctance of the congressional leaders to give up their traditional rule over raising their own funds and running their own campaigns. In private comments, they are making no bones they feel they can do that a lot better than the National Committee.

That was bluntly said by Speaker Rayburn at the Democratic caucus in which he urged the Rules Committee be increased to ensure House consideration of President Kennedy's legislative programs.

While vigorously advocating this, the veteran Texas leader harpooned Bailey's plan to "absorb" the campaign committees.

"The National Chairman has his hands full paying off last year's $3 million debt and raising $1 million for this year's expenses," said Rayburn. "I'm sure these problems will afford Mr. Bailey no time to provide for our 1962 requirements. That's why we need our own campaign committee."

"There will be no absorption, merger or consolidation. I can promise you that. I am flatly against it."

Don't fence me in — Similar emphatic opposition was voiced by Floor Leader John McCormack, Mass., and Rep. Michael Kirwan, O., who was re-elected chairman of the House Campaign Committee at this meeting.

"The only way we can be sure of providing for our campaign needs is to take care of them ourselves," asserted McCormack. "With the best intentions in the world, neither the National Committee nor anyone else can do that better than we can. I am heartily for full cooperation with the National Committee, but not consolidation."

Kirwan not only rejected Bailey's proposal, but announced preparations already are underway for a fund-raising dinner by his committee — to be attended by President Kennedy and Vice President Johnson.

Meanwhile, National Chairman Bailey's big debt-paying job has run into a $140,000 roadblock in the Senate Finance Committee.

Senator Harry Byrd, Va., chairman, is holding up the House-passed bill to exempt the tickets to the inaugural receptions, gala and balls from the 10 per cent federal tax.

The $14 million netted from the gala is to apply to the National Committee's debt. But if Byrd's committee blocks the tax measure, that will cost the Committee $140,000. The powerful Virginian, who did not endorse the Kennedy-Johnson ticket, has had two chances to act on the tax bill, but passed them both up.

Chairman Bailey aims to raise some $3 million this year, to pay off the 1960 debt and to take care of the National Committee's budget, by a series of Jefferson-Jackson Day dinners throughout the country.

President Kennedy is strongly backing these plans. At his last Cabinet meeting, he urged the members to make themselves available to address these fund-raising affairs.

However, he excepted the secretaries of state, defense and treasury.

Treasury Secretary C. Douglas Dillon is a Republican, and was undersecretary of state in the Eisenhower Administration. Defense Secretary Robert McNamara, former president of Ford Motor Company, is a Republican. And since World War II, secretaries of state have stayed out of partisan politics.

The President also told the Cabinet that he contemplates making several Jefferson-Jackson Day talks — one of them probably in California.

Laughingly, he also disclosed he may go to New York City next month to view the traditional St. Patrick's Day parade. Mayor Wagner and other local leaders have invited him.

Likes Wildlife Pictures

Dear Mr. Editor:

Picture shown on Saturday your birdman was correct in calling it a Junco. In fact it was a slate colored Junco.

When skies are leaden and the first flurries of snow warn us that Winter is here, flocks of Juncos arrive. Feathers on their back reflect the leaden skies and the breast feathers the snow.

The white outside tail feathers on either side serve as a signal for the others to follow. Especially good when flocks are on migration. Without these many stragglers would have been left behind.

Juncos belong to the family Fringillidae, Genus Junco. Finches also belong to the same family but Genus Carpodacus. So you were right in saying they belong to same family, but not the same genus.

I feel the people appreciate the shots of birds and deer in The Record. Have Mac keep it up.

Miami is the town that Walter Winchell made famous with an assist from Arthur Godfrey and naturally both are big news. I was happy to be able to tell Walter's many friends in Miami that he's feeling fit physically and will be back to work as soon as he rests up. They miss him. And I miss him anywhere.

Because of its geographic location, Florida is more conspicuous of Castro than any other part of the country. The Red enemy is less than 100 miles away. Every rumor of missile launching pads in Cuba starts off a wave of apprehension from the Florida Keys northward.

Naturally there's a lot of wishful thinking in Miami, especially among exiled Cubans, many of whom are in very tough circumstances indeed. However, the same man who tipped me off more than four years ago that Castro was a Red (while The Beard was still in the mountains), now gives him from three to four months and no longer. He told me Castro has 30,000 troops in the hills trying to ferret out 4,000 tough hordes who have been getting guns, food and help from American sources. I won't divulge them. It's new if it hasn't been printed that Joe DiMaggio nixed a Miami trip with his pals George Siltaire, the genial ticket broker and skinny D'Amato of Atlantic City's 400 Club, just because Monroe is not going to Miami . . . Heart Talk Given At Lions Meet

DR. JAMES REED of East Stroudsburg State College spoke to Stroudsburg Lions Club at Tuesday night's dinner meeting telling in layman's language of the difficulties caused to the human heart by arteriosclerosis, of the way victims of this common affliction can help fight it and how it is so important in coronary thrombosis.

He explained how heart attacks may be caused when a blockage occurs in one of the small arteries on the surface of the heart. He said there is no trouble in an unimpeded artery but through the coating of the inner surface of the artery by fatty cholesterol the passage of the blood is checked. If there is no crisis nature will proceed, by using the capillaries to by-pass the damaged spot, but if a blood clot gets caught there before this is done a heart attack follows.

Dr. Reed told of the artery-blocks which make it possible to obtain sections of artery that may be transplanted into an afflicted body. He warned against the effect of tension on sufferers and told of the importance of short rest periods during the day and of the folly of older people trying to do bursts of activity and of the benefit of proper exercise which builds muscle tone and keeps circulation natural. He gave reassurance to all sufferers from high blood pressure if they will use simple precautions. Avoiding overweight is an important factor.

As a means of life extension he urged them to remember diet, rest and exercise. As symptoms of departures from the norm that might indicate heart trouble he listed shortness of breath, undue fatigue and nausea.

Lost Hours
In closing he said that in this country every day 70,000,000 man hours are lost because of heart trouble.

Harvey Byrnes, chairman of the charter night committee said the annual birthday party of the club will be held on Saturday night, March 11. Members of the committee will be present at the Penn-Stroud ballroom on the afternoon of that day to place decorations.

He said every effort is being made to get Lum's orchestra of Milford for the party. An innovation will be the selection of a queen for the evening.

With the club membership divided into nine teams the annual attendance contest will start next week.

Shamokin Blast Kills 1, Injures 2

SHAMOKIN, Pa. (AP)—A mine explosion yesterday killed one man and injured two others at the Glen Burn mine of the Susquehanna Colliery Co. here.

Company officials identified the dead man as Alphonse Poploskie, 34, father of two children.

Injured were Leroy Snyder, 34, and Charles V. Ichorick, 50, both of Shamokin. They were reported in fair condition at Shamokin Hospital, suffering multiple injuries.

Representatives of the U.S. Bureau of Mines and State Mines Department investigated the accident. State officials speculated that the explosion stemmed from either dynamite or gas, though no definite cause had been established. They said they will continue the investigation Thursday.

Bill To Aid County Employees

Record Harrisburg Bureau
HARRISBURG—County employees on a per diem-per-day-basis in seventh class counties such as Monroe County would be eligible to have their per diem days of employment counted as retirement credit days under terms of legislation now before the General Assembly.

At the present time such retirement credits are limited to those county employees hired on a salary basis. Under terms of the legislation now pending though, per diem as well as salaried employees could gain retirement credits.

Would Be Limited

The legislation, sponsored by Senators William J. Lane, Washington County; Charles R. Malley, Blair, and George B. Stevenson, Clinton County, stipulates however that the retirement credit for county per diem employees would be limited to those employed "for at least two hundred days per year" on a per diem basis.

Under present law, seventh class counties such as Monroe County are not required to institute county retirement programs but "may" do so under resolution adopted by the county commissioners.

The legislation has been referred to the Senate Committee on Local Government.

Christian Home Day Tomorrow

ELDER MILTON T. Reiber, pastor of the Seventh-day Adventist Church, will lead his congregation Saturday, in observance of Christian Home Day.

"The special day is set annually in Adventist churches in North America to strengthen the moral and religious influences of the home, upon which depends the well-being of society, the success of the church and the prosperity of the nation," Pastor Reiber said.

Recognizing that neither the church nor the school can compensate for unstable homes, Adventist members will take inventory of their own homes, to see whether they are providing the love, security, discipline, and daily practice of religion, which are essential for their children's development of mature personalities.

Other Provisions

Beside encouraging daily family worship, the church provides study groups, lending libraries, and other guidance for child training and the home through the Home and School Association.

To supplement the influence of Christian homes, Adventists operate parochial schools, summer camps, vacation Bible schools, Pathfinder clubs, and Sabbath schools for the training of the youth.

At 3:30 a teacher, Joseph Battisto, of Pocono Mountain Joint Schools, and two students, Margaret Austin from East Stroudsburg State College and Virginia Mayer from Pocono Mountain Joint Schools will take over the panel with a symposium on modern literature. Bar Unit Studying Laws Affecting Ill

A STUDY of laws and legal procedures affecting the mentally ill has been undertaken by the American Bar Foundation.

The project grew out of deliberations of the American Bar Assn's. special committee on the rights of the mentally ill, which has repeatedly said that a complete re-evaluation of the laws on mental illness is urgently needed.

This study will be followed with great interest by all organizations working with the mentally ill, including the Monroe County Mental Health Assn.

It is stated that this study will be the basis for the drafting of a model act which will adequately protect the legal rights of the mentally ill.

First Phase

The first phase of the project was recently completed in the form of a report entitled "The Mentally Disabled and the Law," and will be published in the near future.

The second aspect of the study he conducted by Prof. Hugh A. Ross of the Western Reserve Law School under a grant of $88,910 from the National Institute of the Mentally Ill of the United States Dept. of Health, Education and Welfare. The grant permits Prof. Ross to devote full time to the study, aided by a large staff of research workers and consultants, for the guidance of law making bodies.

State Jobless Hits 504,000

HARRISBURG (AP) — Unemployment increased by 71,000 to 504,000 persons between December and January, the State Labor and Industry Department reported yesterday.

The Bureau of Employment Security said the number out of work represented 11.0 per cent of the civilian labor force as compared to 9.3 per cent in mid-December. The bureau attributed the rise in unemployment to seasonal fluctuations in agriculture and construction, post-holiday layoffs in trade and service, and declines in metals, bituminous mining and stone-clay-glass industries.

Gas Tax Hike Is Official

HARRISBURG (AP) — Gov. Lawrence Thursday signed into law the two-cent-a-gallon increase in the state's gasoline tax.

The increase raises the tax to seven cents, effective April 1.

The legislation passed the state Senate Tuesday night. It will produce an estimated $74 million a year for the state motor fund—the commonwealth's highway building treasury.

The governor also signed a bill boosting the borrowing capacity of the state Highway and Bridge Authority by $300 million, spread over a six-year period.

The debt is to be increased at the rate of $50 million a year to help finance interstate highway construction projects. Highways Secretary Park H. Martin has said he expects to use the gas tax increase principally to build rural and feeder roads for which no federal aid is available.

Wide open bedroom windows in borough homes do not mean summer heat has returned, but they do mean snow covered roofs are melting where heat strikes the roofs from inside, and are ruining wallpaper in rooms. Opening the windows and turning off the heat on the top story is said to somewhat relieve the situation.

Just Between Us —

—By Bobby Westbrook

There are many programs which are thoroughly enjoyable but very few where I learn so many new things as the one given by Donal MacNamara at Dutch Treat last night.

You got a feeling of organized crime in this country as an octopus that you are deliberately hand-feeding. There was a high emotional impact to his speech, not from his manner but from his swift marshalling of facts, figures and conclusions.

The students in his classes have, I hope, read our "How to Take Notes" series. They need it to get all the information down as fast as he gives it. It was stimulating—and his ideas followed in general those in the textbook our own local people are studying in that class on Juvenile Delinquency.

Anyway I was so interested I didn't even notice what all the Dutch Treat women were wearing. That was a change from the fashion show in the same room the night before.

It's one of the contradictions in feminine nature that we rush around tidying up the house before the cleaning woman comes—and get all dressed up to go to a fashion show.

There certainly were some mighty handsome outfits there, and it was as good as a show watching the customers who might well have modeled—"immortal simplicity" and all. Sally Ferrebee as commentator really did double as a model in a handsome black and beige ensemble.

She had her work cut out for her—out-gabbing that bunch of gabblers—especially after that one hat appeared—the one that looked like an upside down green pot with red flowers all around.

The hats were really lush and enough to brighten up the latest Spring. But I really think Joyce Pedersen is going a little far in trying to brighten up a lingering Winter. Seems a big black blob of dirt across the smooth white expanse of her back lawn.

She stood it as long as she could and then waded out and shoveled fresh snow over it. Now there's something to pass your morning with: just trot yourself out and turn over all the soiled snow, like turning the cushions on the couch when company's coming.

As for me, I'll just watch you and worry about our home-grown Mafia.

Carol Dailey Honored On 15th Birthday

Miss Claudia Lessig entertained recently at a surprise birthday party in honor of Carol Dailey who was 15 years old. Dancing games and two cakes marked the party.

Guests included Robert Corby, Mike McDaniel, Steven Sommers, Terry Lipe, Richard Smoke, Darla Field, Marilee Boushell, Barbara Michaels, Stephanie Kanuch, Gale Lessig, Linda Dailey.

John Felleoner, David Menhart, Billie Reese and Susan Fatzinger had been invited but were unable to attend.

Barrett Legion Aux. Gives To Welfare Funds

Barrett — The Legion Aux. of Barrett Twp. at their meeting this week voted $10 to Scotland School; $12 to Child Welfare; $5 to Keystone Camp; $3 to the scholarship fund and $3 for Junior baseball.

Malinda Havlik presided at the meeting. Mrs. Victor Koch, district president, congratulated the group on meeting its membership quota. The eastern section is in first place this year.

A committee was named to attend the Carnival Committee meeting on Feb. 20. It was announced that May McKinney is on the sick list.

Refreshments were served by Lydia Christiansen, Bertha Muir and Malinda Havlik.

ESHC Class of '36

A meeting of the class of 1936, East Stroudsburg High School, has been called for Thursday night at the high school. All members of the class are invited and asked to bring with them any addresses of out-of-town members with an eye to the coming reunion.

You can store brownies and other bar cookies right in their baking pan if you cover it tightly with foil or transparent plastic wrapping.

VICTORIAN BRAID used in contrasting colors to accent the open neckline and easy fit of this dress featured in the N. Y. Couture Group showings was among the details echoed in the local fashion show this week sponsored by the Junior Woman's Club.

Fashion Show Echoes Highlights Of Couture Fashions At Local Level

Some 250 local women had a chance to compare the fashion dictates of America's leading designers with what Monroe County's well-dressed women will actually be wearing this Spring and Summer at the fashion show sponsored by the Junior Woman's Club at the Penn-Stroud Hotel on Wednesday night.

Sally Ferrebee as commentator was quick to point up the high fashion notes exemplified in the hats and dresses from Frances Burrows and the furs by Joseph.

Modelled by a group of nine local women, many of them connected with the Junior or Senior Woman's Club.

Rosemary Levy, club president, was one of the models. Others were Jo MacDowell, Kay Mullins, Marilyn Litts, Marie Stem-

Both the ballroom and grille room which had its own commentator were filled for the fashion show, proceeds from which will be used for the Junior Woman's Club welfare projects.

Mr. and Mrs. John Osborne and S. J. Willis were co-chairmen. Fashion highlights of the clothes closely paralleled those in New York showings in fabric, color, and general silhouette. Pure silk, air-weight wool, cottons in suits tailored as carefully as wool, and cotton knits were featured.

White with contrasting bindings; orange, pink, yellow, and an odd lime-light green were among the most vivid colors, all of them clear and un-muddled. Navy and black, often combined with bone or brighter colors were also shown, and a few prints, although fewer than in other springtimes.

The silhouette was generally more relaxed although there were few of the really loose waistlines featured by some designers this spring. However, the open neckline, the sleeveless, bare-armed look; the use of slashes instead of tight belts; the prevalence of slim skirts fuller over the hips but tapering at the hem; and the length of the hemline closely followed the haute couture influence.

However, in coats and suits women in Monroe County like their sleeves longer. Only one of the coats in the show, a brilliant orange linen, had the short, almost capelike sleeve so much featured in the New York show. The wool suits also tended to fit closer to the neck and to have longer sleeves. However, "the costume look" of jacket and dress, or three piece suit with a co-ordinated blouse that gave the look of a dress were admirably illustrated in the show. This co-ordinated look was further dramatized in the hats: most of them lavish with flowers in riots of color.

One particularly handsome costume was a black wool suit with a neck-framing standing collar. The flowered silk over-blouse with a cummerbund showing beneath the short jacket, echoed the same brilliant flowers of the hat.

Another notable advance was the fact that in the jacket and dress ensembles, the dresses this year are quite able to hold their own without the jacket, looking complete in themselves and together making a convertible costume to go from luncheon to cocktails to dinner.

The furs by Joseph featured stoles and short jackets of natural mink, mink mutations or broad-tail.

Board of Managers

The board of managers of the Monroe County Council of United Church Women will meet tonight at 7:30 at the Presbyterian church in Stroudsburg.

If a cake recipe specifies shortening and you want to use butter instead, decrease the amount of liquid called for by 1 tablespoon for every one-quarter to one-third cup shortening called for.

Winter seasoning: minced dried green onions are available in small jars ready to add to many dishes.

NEW AT WYCKOFF'S—the first inkling of "the Jackie Kennedy Look," beautiful little pill boxes of sturdy, colorful tapestry, to be worn on the back of the head in the manner of our new First Lady. If you wish to go along with the Jackie Trend, the price is just 3.98, as a "head starter."

It's always pleasant meeting Major Joseph McCann's wife in our store. Mrs. McCann has traveled everywhere, and has been a shopper and collector here and abroad, but she has a very nice enthusiasm for Wyckoff's, much to our delight! I encountered her yesterday, while I was looking around our make-believe garden of make-believe flowers, in our gift department. Never have I seen such realistic artificial gladiolas, priced at 59c a spray. (One big bouquet of the brilliant salmon colored spears is shown at the center of our mezzanine display, and is so lovely you actually ache for Spring.) Carnations are 69c apiece; delphiniums, 1.50; larkspur, 59c; hyacinths, 5c; and irises, 1.25.

We also have plastic features, in various colors, at 10c to tuck into your bouquets, if you've a mind.

One of the rewards in cleaning house is finding unexpected treasures and memories. The other evening, Marian Ace and I discovered, in a desk drawer, a photograph taken about 38 years ago, showing participants in the Daily Vacation Bible School of the Presbyterian Church. At that time, Marian was a round-faced little girl with heavy, dark bangs, and I was a round-faced very blond child, also with bangs. Next to me is Mary Keiper (now Mary Hosier, our Wyckoff knitting instructor) with side-parted hair draped back into a barette.

Times may have changed, and we may all have become older, but it's surprising how many adults of today are recognized in the tiny faces of so long ago. Peg Huber (Heller), for instance... Marae Bowlby (Smith), Shirley Baierle-Price (Wheeler) and her sister, Carolyn Baierle-Price (Sams). Also Fred Rhodes, Bob Martin, Frances Arbogast (Barthold), Marion Altemose (Niece), and three of the Wyckoff boys. As I pointed out to the president of our company, I never thought when I was a round-faced cherub of seven, that I'd someday be working for the still younger, brown-eyed little boy, seated solemnly a few feet away in the front row. I'll say this for Holt... he's grown a lot, and aged a bit, but no one could fail to identify him.

You realize, don't you, that the days between now and Valentine are "thinning out"? If you haven't bought your cards and gifts, hurry! We have a wonderful supply of both, so shop Wyckoff's by telephone, mail, or in person.

Brownies Selling Scout Cookies

Newfoundland — Those little girls you see dragging heavy-looking cartons around this week aren't going traveling. They're Brownies, selling some 360 boxes of Girl Scout Cookies!

The young ladies will be calling on local residents to participate in the annual cookie sale between February 6 and February 20.

Cookies were distributed during the weekly meeting of the troop at Southern Wayne Joint School under the direction of Mrs. Emil Wohlfart. Mrs. Nelson Woltjen is cookie chairman.

Mrs. Wohlfart discussed with the brownies International Friendship Month, February. She described the World Flag, and told the girls that they will be constructing their own World Flag during this month. Pictures of uniformed scouts from all over the world were displayed for the benefit of the troop during the meeting.

Games were led during the afternoon by Mrs. Arthur Jones.

No February Bereans

Bartonsville — The Berean Class of St. John's Lutheran Sunday School will not hold a meeting this month. The next one will be held in March, weather and road conditions permitting.

West End Legion Aux.

Gilbert — The West End Memorial Unit 927 of the American Legion will meet at Gilbert Inn on Monday night. A social time will follow the meeting.

If you want a rich-as-Croesus pastry for jam turnovers, use a cup of sifted flour with a quarter pound of butter or margarine and three ounces of cream cheese may be worked into the flour with a pastry blender or they may be creamed together and then mixed with the flour.

Winter seasoning: minced dried green onions are available in small jars ready to add to many dishes.

SECOND OF SERIES

DO YOU think your teeth are soft? Chances are they are average American teeth and as average American teeth they are not soft.

Frequently, your dentist may see a patient who actually lacks certain components in the structure of his teeth. To stretch a point, it might be said this person has "soft teeth." However, this is rare and does not include the majority of persons who just think their teeth are soft.

Why do they think their teeth are softer than any others? First of all, realize one basic fact. Dental decay affects almost everybody. Cavities in your teeth do not denote softness.

Mrs. Jones visits the dentist after neglecting her teeth for three or four years. The doctor finds 20 teeth with cavities and four teeth requiring extraction. Mrs. Jones' first reaction is, "My teeth are soft." Mrs. Jones' reaction should be, "I've neglected my teeth."

Billy, age six, appears at the dentist for the first time, with a toothache. Are Billy's teeth soft? No. He should have been under the care of the dentist since he was about three years old when the cavities were small and could have been repaired easily.

There is another very good reason for the idea of soft teeth. Look at your back teeth, or at your children's back teeth. The top, or chewing surface, of these teeth are covered with a network of grooves. Most persons, children and adults alike, have deep grooves in their teeth. Frequently, these grooves require filling shortly after the tooth erupts. Thus it is not abnormal or unusual to find cavities in two or three year old children. So again it is heard, "Are these teeth soft?" The answer is, "No, but they have deep grooves which is very normal."

Remember then, tooth decay is a widespread condition. Books have been written on why teeth decay. The reasons are numerous, but "soft teeth" is not one of them.

Dear Abby

Good For The Goose

Dear Abby: This is probably the silliest letter you've ever received, but I don't know where else to get the answer.

My husband says that in a marriage ceremony in New York, the wife promises to love, honor and obey her husband, but the husband doesn't promise to love, honor and obey his wife. I say that the husband and wife take the same vows. Who is right?

BIG ARGUMENT Dear Big: In recent years, the word "obey" has been dropped from most marriage ceremonies. But according to Protestant, Catholic and Jewish clergymen (and judges who perform civil ceremonies) the husband and wife take the SAME vows.

Dear Abby: My daughter-in-law is killing my son. All she knows about is the can opener. He hasn't had a square meal since he married her, except at my house. She doesn't have a schedule for anything. She washes when she feels like it, and never mends anything. If things get torn or ripped, she throws them away and buys new. When she's home, she's talking on the telephone. When she's not home, she's gossiping with the neighbors. I offered to teach her to cook, sew and keep house, but she tells me she's not the type. Is there any way I can help her? Or should I just leave her alone? My son can't find any fault with her.

Dear Mother - in - law: If your son is satisfied, then he deserves what he's getting. Don't waste your sympathy on a contented ostrich, and don't try to educate someone who is blissfully ignorant.

Dear Abby: Some women lose their husbands because they nag too much. I lost mine because I didn't nag enough.

When Bill drank a little too much, and came home hours after every respectable place in town was locked up, I held my tongue because I detest scenes. I thought the most important thing in the world was keeping "peace."

I was wrong. Please tell other young wives that when their husbands start to get out of line to raise Holy Ned. A man will get away with as much as he can. I kept the peace for 14 years, but I lost my husband.

HINDSIGHT

Confidential to "Bud": A very wise man once said, "Remember—on the day of your death, everything you possess in the world will belong to somebody else. But what you are will be yours forever."

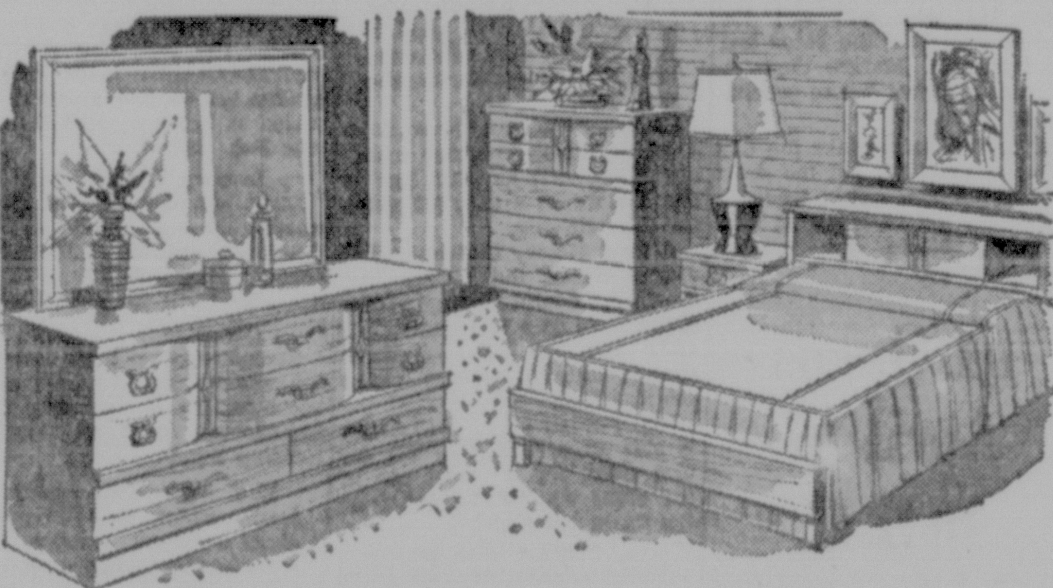

"What's your problem?" For a personal reply from Abby, send a self-addressed, stamped envelope to Abby, c/o The Daily Record.

'Freckles' At Grand

LOVELY 22-year-old Carol Christensen, who plays the feminine leading role in the API CinemaScope, DeLuxe Color production of "Freckles," widely read and well-loved novel by Gene Stratton Porter, now playing at the Grand Theatre, is a product of Sanford Meisner's talent school at 20th Century-Fox.

Originally from Detroit, the young actress spent two years in New York studying drama, modeling, appearing on live TV and doing commercials.

During her stay in New York, she was sent by Mayor Wagner on a good-will tour of South America, and won several beauty contests. Determined to study drama seriously, she flew to Hollywood and entered the studio talent class of Meisner six months ago. She is the first one of his students to be starred in a motion picture, and the first to star in a CinemaScope color feature.

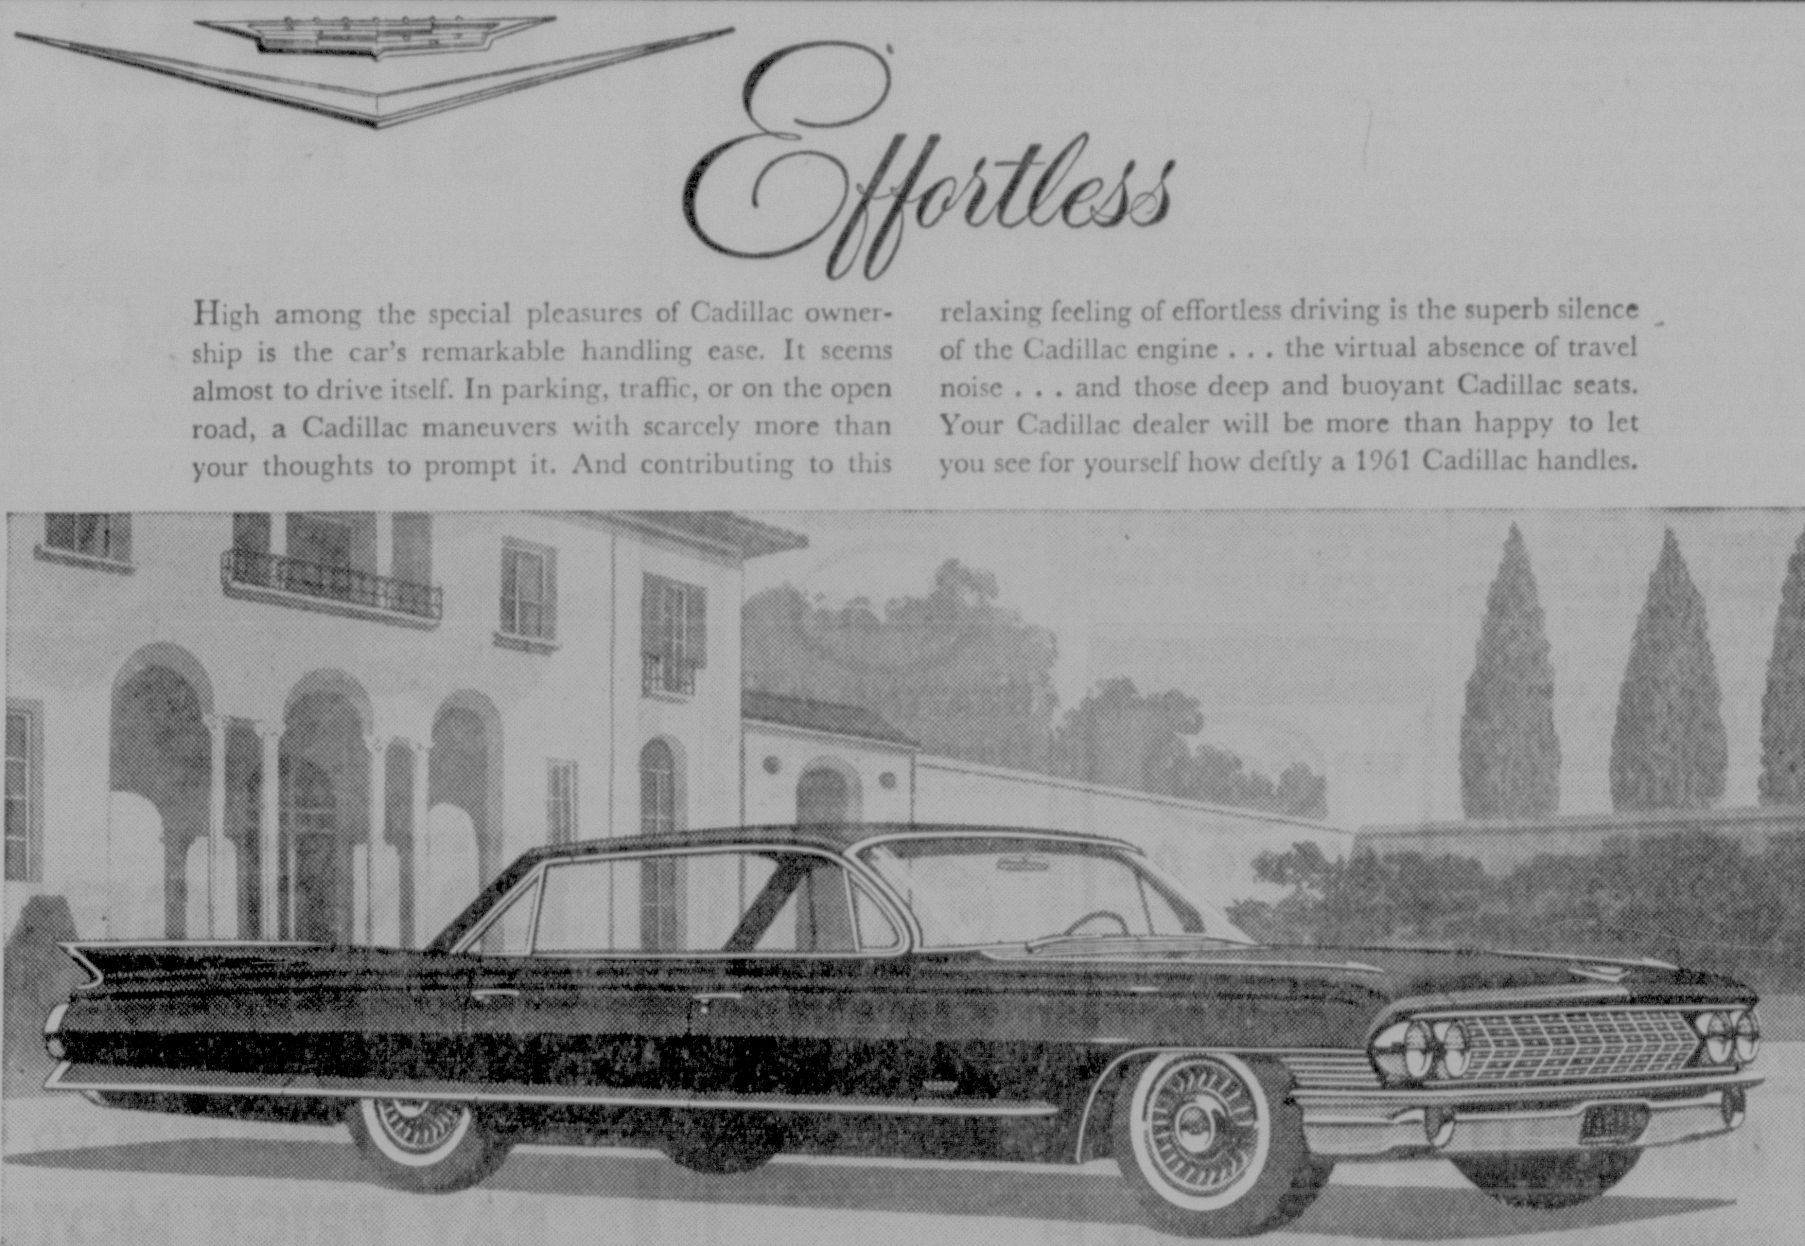

Governor Grants Commutations

HARRISBURG (AP) — By recommendation of the state Pardons Board, Gov. Lawrence yesterday granted commutations of sentence to two persons serving life terms for murder.

They are Jacob Merrill, Montgomery County, and Nancy Jeanette Holt, Green County. The commutations were recommended from a group of 17 life term prisoners considered at the December Pardons Board meeting. Twelve were refused and three others were held under advisement.

Trio Has 66

Collins, Rudolph, Marr
Lead In Phoenix Golf

By CARL BELL
PHOENIX, Ariz. (AP) — Three golf pros accustomed to the lesser tournament paychecks blazed in with 66s and shared a one-stroke lead in the first round of the $30,000 Phoenix Open Thursday.

Tied at the top with four-under-par were big Bill Collins, who lost this title to Jack Fleck in a play-off last year; Mason Rudolph and Dave Marr.

Breathing down their necks were Julius Boros, Jay Hebert, Don January, Tommy Bolt and Don Fairfield, and little known Buddy Sullivan, all at 67.

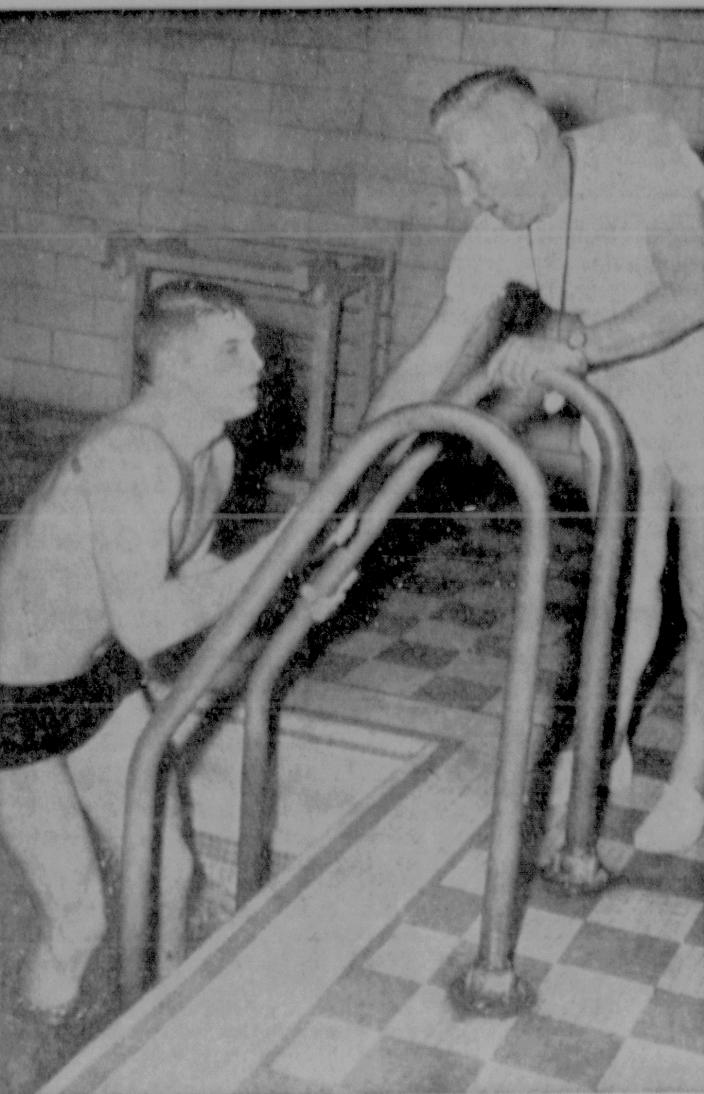

Thirty-one players bettered the 6,661-yard Arizona Country Club par 70 and 16 others equaled it. The biggest money Sullivan has made in golf was the result of another's play. He and Joe Campbell had agreed to split if either shot a $30,000 hole in one at Palm Springs last year. Campbell made the ace.

Palmer Has 69
Grouped at 68 with defending champion Fleck were Canadian Stan Leonard, Henry Williams, Tommy Aaron, Paul Harney, Al Balding, Ken Kier, Bob Duden and Gary Loustalot, a newcomer to the tournament circuit from Sacramento, Calif.

Gallery favorite Arnold Palmer, the 1960 golfer of the year, was tied with 12 others at 69.

Ken Venturi, whose 65 was low in Wednesday's pro-am, blew to a 73, as did Bob Rosburg, this year's second leading money winner.

The pack at 69 included Gary Player, the top money winner so far this year; little Jerry Barber and brothers Buster and Jackie Cupit. Jackie, a youngster out of Longview, Tex., is making his debut on the circuit.

BRITE STAR—Rick Lobs, East Stroudsburg State College freshman, earns the Brite Star of the Week Award for his record-breaking performance in the ESSC-Lock Haven swimming meet Wednesday. Lobs broke his own school record for the individual medley, swimming the 200-yard distance in 2:27.3. Last week Lobs, who is being helped from the pool after a workout by Warrior coach Frank Grimm, broke a four-year old ESSC record with a 2:27.4 clocking.

Accidents Mar
Bobsled Trials

LAKE PLACID, N.Y. (AP) — Two serious accidents on treacherous zig-zag curve marred Thursday's final drills before the 2-man World Bobsled Championships open on the Olympic run Saturday.

A Swedish brakeman, Walter Amundson, was under heavy sedation after being dragged down the last quarter mile of the Mt. Van Hoevenberg run when he apparently was knocked unconscious after hitting the wall on the zig part of the curve.

Bron Jon de Crouwel, the driver on Belgian's No. 1 sled, required surgery after his sled went out of control on the same curve. He was taken to Lake Placid Hospital with head and arm injuries.

Close Swipe
Doctors refused to comment on the condition of either patient. The Swedish sled, driven by Gunnar Garpo, took a close swipe on the curve and Garpo said later that his brakeman apparently hit his head against the wall and lost consciousness.

De Crouwel went into the zig part of the curve too late and thus did not make a proper run into the second section. His sled slammed against the top of the curve and he lost control. When it moved on a downward pitch and hit the other side De Crouwel was apparently tossed out and the sled dragged both the baron and his brakeman, Marian Chytrowski, about 130 feet before continuing on alone.

Friday the teams take the day off from practices but the draw for post positions will be held and the course will be given its final manicure before the two-day championships.

AL Opens
April 10
In D. C.

BOSTON (AP) — The new-look American League will open its expanded schedule April 10 with "firsts" aplenty, but lacking two of baseball's most dominant personalities.

Casey Stengel and Tom Williams will be among the missing when the league opens its 60th season with Chicago at Washington in the traditional curtain-raiser at Griffith Stadium.

Conditions permitting, President Kennedy will throw out the first pitch for the first time, keynoting the league's own "new frontiers" program.

Shift Team
The circuit, expanded to 10 teams, has new franchises in Los Angeles and Washington. The former Washington franchise has shifted to Minnesota's twin cities, Minneapolis-St. Paul.

The schedule, announced Thursday by League President Joe Cronin, calls for 162 games instead of the traditional 154—necessary because of the greater number of teams—and lists the first regularly scheduled two-night double-headers.

Previously, two-night twin bills were allowed only as makeups for postponed games. Baltimore, Detroit and Los Angeles took the maximum three two-night double-headers, Boston and Chicago scheduled none.

The schedule lists 376 single night games ranging from 55 at Kansas City and 54 at Los Angeles down to 22 each at Boston and Detroit.

Two new leaders turned up Thursday in official statistics released by the NCAA Service Bureau in New York. Lafayette's Morris Boyer has taken over the lead in field goal percentage, with .643 on 63 of 98 attempts. Larry Bale of Murray (Ky.) is second with a .613 percentage followed by Ohio State's Jerry Lucas with .610.

Lucas' Buckeye buddy, Larry Siegfried, has wrested the free throw percentage lead from Georgia Tech's Roger Kaiser. Siegfried has hit 83 of 95 for .874 per cent. Kaiser is right behind with 138 of 158 for .873 cent.

EIGHT basketball games and two wrestling matches are crowded into tonight's sports schedule and five of the activities are on tap in the boroughs.

On the high school level, Shington is at Stroud Union in a Lehigh Valley League game, while Lehigh-Northampton League games find Copley at East Stroudsburg and Bangor at Pen Argyl.

Lake Ariel, which won the first half championship of the Wayne County League, meets Southern Wayne at Newfoundland in a loop encounter. And the Pocono Mountain Scholastic League finds Pleasant Valley at Delaware Valley, Coolbaugh at Tobyhanna Twp. and Pocono Twp. at Barrett.

East Stroudsburg State College meets Shippensburg State in a wrestling-basketball triple header at Normal Hill. The JV wrestling starts at 5:30, with the varsity wrestling at 7 and the basketball game at 8:30.

Last Nine Straight
Stroud Union which has dropped nine straight games and is in last place in the league, faces a team that finished second in the first half.

The Mounties, who were held to 37 points in their last outing against Whitehall, have scored only one league victory this season.

East Stroudsburg 1-14 has a better than average chance to post its second win tonight.

Copley has not won during the second half and its only win in the first half, was against East Stroudsburg.

Wilson Boro whipped the Cavaliers Tuesday, even though East Stroudsburg hit .44 percent of its field goals.

Slaters Underdogs
Bangor, which is fighting to stay out of the Lehigh-Northampton cellar, is cast in the underdog role against Pen Argyl.

The Green Knights who are not having as good a year as they did last season, whipped Bangor during the first half.

Southern Wayne, beat Lake Ariel during the regular schedule of the first half but lost to the Lakers in a play-off game for the half title.

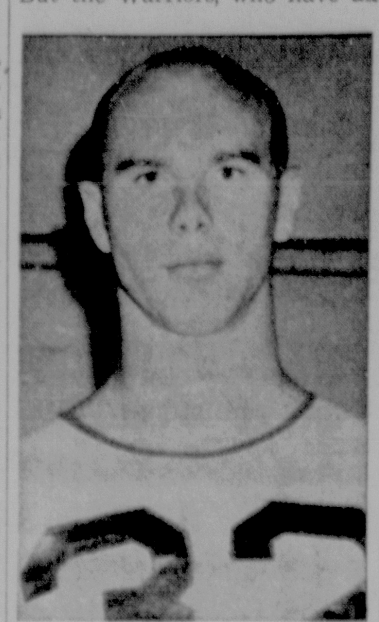

A Stag victory tonight, would almost clinch the second half crown for Southern Wayne. The Stags have only two games left after tonight, both at home against teams they beat during the first half.

The Pocono Mountain League is still in a three-way tie for first place but at least one of the clubs will be dropped from the top spot tonight.

Pocono at Bottom
Barrett, Delaware Valley and Pleasant hold down first place during the second half with 1-0 records. Then comes Coolbaugh 1-1, Tobyhanna Twp. 0-1 and Pocono Twp. 0-2.

Coch Coach Dick Luce's East Stroudsburg State basketball team swept past a big obstacle Wednesday night by beating Millersville 74-64 at Millersville. But the Warriors, who have an outside chance of winning the Eastern Division of the Pennsylvania State College Conference, cannot lose another game. If the Warriors do sweep their remaining five conference games, unbeaten Mansfield will have to drop several games, in order for East Stroudsburg to slip in.

Mansfield lost its top rebounder, Bill Turner, during the semester break because of scholastic difficulty. Turner was averaging 19 rebounds a game, one of the top marks in the country.

The Warriors are on the road for four rough road games following tonight. They face Kings, Monday; Mansfield, Wednesday; Bloomsburg Saturday and West Chester the following Wednesday. They return home Feb. 25 against Wilkes and close out the season at home against Millersville Feb. 28.

Line-up Unscheduled
Luce has not settled on a starting line-up for tonight. Russ Hopewell injured his heel against Millersville and Luce will wait until tonight to see if Hopewell is able to play.

Tonight's game is the last one for center Ken Hendricks as a bachelor. He is marrying East Stroudsburg coed Sue Lloyd in Reading Sunday.

The Warriors wrestling team, which has dropped three straight matches to some of the strongest teams in the country, will be after its fourth win in nine matches tonight.

The East Stroudsburg-CCNY wrestling match postponed Saturday because of the snow will be held Monday in New York City.

Al Miller Gets Albright Post

Al (Bosh) Miller, an All-America soccer player at East Stroudsburg State College, has been named to the physical education faculty at Albright College. Bosh, a June graduate at Normal Hill, will coach baseball at the Reading school. Albright does not have a soccer team.

Miller played third base for the Warriors' diamond team last year and caught for the Strouds, in the Blue Mountain League.

Miller will teach the physical education classes formerly handled by football coach Jim Potskian, who quit the Albright post to become an assistant coach at Tulane.

And it appears that the Strouds will not operate next year. Finances and lack of ball players seems to be the reasons.

Sam Kinder, Glen Brook Country Club pro, who is spending the winter in Florida, sends a clipping from a Miami paper, which names two of the new assistant pros at Shawnee Inn.

Howard Hall, Key Colony, Fla. pro and Preston Patterson, Fort Myers, Fla. pro will assist head professional Jack Cummins at Shawnee.

Kist's Nephew, Leading Scorer

Craig Fuehrer, the leading scorer in the Lehigh-Northampton basketball league, is the nephew of East Stroudsburg High football coach Jack Kist. Fuehrer, performs for Wilson Boro and is averaging about 27 points a game.

And while the schedules have not been completed, it appears there will be conflicts between East Stroudsburg High, Strouds Union and East Stroudsburg State during the football season. The three teams are arranging their schedules so that two teams will not be playing at the same time.

And looking ahead to the football season, East Stroudsburg High will probably be the pre-season favorite to win the Lehigh-Northampton League.

The Cavaliers lose only quarterback Jack Feilman and tackle Vince Patella from their starting unit.

California: State's Homecoming Foe

California will be Penn State's homecoming opponent next season. The teams clash Oct. 28 at Beaver Stadium.

Lock Haven State College will hold the third annual National Assn. of Intercollegiate Athletics' soccer tournament next year.

Tommy Bartlett, radio and television star, will be the master of ceremonies at the Allentown Fair Sports, Vacation and Boat Show, March 17 through 26 at the Fairgrounds' Agricultural Hall.

Cavaliers Get Swim Approval

EAST STROUDSBURG Area Joint School Committee last night approved the high school's entry in the East Penn Interscholastic Swimming League.

The Cavaliers will be one of eight teams in the new loop, which will open next winter.

The other schools are William Allen, Bethlehem, Parkland, Emmaus, Wilson Boro, Dieruff and Whitehall.

No coach has been named for the East Stroudsburg team.

London On Way

LONDON (AP)—Brian London, former British heavyweight champion, left London Thursday on his way to fight George Chuvalo, Canadian champion, in Toronto Feb. 20.

The official name of the Los Angeles Angels, new American League baseball team is Golden West Baseball Co.

College Bowl
Picks Coaches

BUFFALO, N. Y. (AP) — Murray Warmath of Minnesota and Jim Owens of Washington will coach the West squad in the first All-America Bowl game here June 23, it was announced Thursday.

Rip Engle of Penn State and Bill Murray of Duke will coach the East, the bowl committee said.

College players graduating this June will make up the 30-man squads for the bowl. Players will be selected this month.

WILLIAM Schoonover, a former outstanding athlete at Stroud Union High School, has been named Commissioner of the Varsity "S" club sponsored boys' football league.

The league, which will start in the fall will be for boys 11 to 13 years old, with a 135 pound weight limit.

Schoonover earned varsity letters at Stroud Union in football and basketball in the middle 1930s. Bill is the father of Bill Jr., who graduated from Stroud Union last year. Bill Jr. starred for the Syracuse University freshman football team last fall.

The new junior football program will be discussed at a meeting of the Varsity "S" Feb. 16 in the Towne Room of the Town Tavern.

Boyer Signs
For $50,000

ST. LOUIS (AP) — Ken Boyer, termed the "best third baseman in baseball" by Manager Solly Hemus, Thursday signed a two-year contract for an estimated $50,000 a year with the St. Louis Cardinals.

Boyer is recognized as a great fielder at his position, is the club's top power hitter and has had three straight .300-plus seasons at the plate.

He has joined the select circle of power hitters with batting averages. The Redbirds recognized this by giving Boyer a two-year contract and pointed out he is the first Cardinal player since all-time great Stan Musial in 1939 to sign an extended contract.

Severance Resigns

VILLANOVA, Pa. (AP) — Al Severance, Villanova University basketball coach since 1936, resigned Thursday, effective the end of this season. His teams won 415, lost 196 in that time.

Voters May Pass On Horse Races

PENNSYLVANIANS, who had a chance to vote on pari-mutuel harness racing, betting in last April's primary, may get a chance to vote on legalized horse race betting, in the November election.

Four Democrats introduced a bill in the State Senate Wednesday to put the question of pari-mutuel horse race tracks on the November ballot.

Bills to legalize horse racing with betting have failed in the past.

Six Pass Law
But the 1959 legislature authorized harness racing with pari-mutuel betting in counties where the voters approved. Six counties voted for tracks.

In horse racing, jockeys ride horses on flat tracks, as opposed to steeplechase tracks, which have obstacles. In harness racing, trotters and pacers pull two-wheeled sulkeys.

Sponsors of the new bill are Sen. Thomas P. McCreesh, Peter J. Cammel and Benjamin D. Donolow, all of Philadelphia and George J. Sarraf, Allegheny.

Spring Training Will Help

Mauch Predicts At Least
60 Victories For Phils

(Another in a series of major league team prospects written under the managers' own by-lines).

By GENE MAUCH
Philadelphia Phillies

LOS ANGELES (AP) — I'm not usually in the habit of going out on a limb. But I will predict one thing right here and now: The Phillies will win more games than the 59 they won last season.

One of the things going for us will be added experience, my own and the team's. Last year, I did not take over the club until the first week of the season, so I missed valuable time getting to know the strength and weaknesses of the players. Now, I've got the entire spring training period to look forward to and will try to have all positions reasonably set by the time the season opens.

Many Rookies

We had about 10 first-year players in 1960. They included Pancho Herrera, Jim Coker, Chris Short, Art Mahaffey, Dallas Green and Tony Gonzalez. With that one season under their belts, I'm looking for them and the others to show marked improvement.

In the cases of Herrera and Mahaffey there is not too much room for improvement. Pancho was one of the outstanding rookies in the National League and gave us the long ball. Mahaffey won seven games and lost only three after coming up from the International League in August.

Lost Close Games
One of our major troubles last season was losing so many close games. There's nothing so frustrating as being beaten by a 1-0 or 2-1 score. We've got some fast young men like Johnny Callison, Gonzalez and Bobby Gene Smith in the outfield and Tony Taylor and Ruben Amaro in the infield and I'm going to put this speed to good use.

We got big Frank Sullivan from Boston to help our pitching staff and I believe that he will. Robin Roberts lost some tough ball games last year and with some solid batting support he could come back to have one of his better years.

Hanover Hi
Fetes Brown

HANOVER — Sterling Brown, co-captain of the East Stroudsburg State College football team last year, was honored as Hanover High School's outstanding alumni of the year, at a banquet Wednesday.

Brown, a guard, was selected as an honorable mention Little All-America and was picked on the second team of the Pennsylvania State College Conference all-star squad.

Penn State coach Rip Engle and Baltimore Colt quarterback, John Unitas, were the speakers at the affair, attended by more than 500 people.

Chilton Hits
52 Points;
Nears Lead

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
East Tennessee's Tom Chilton, after a record-matching 52 points against Austin Peay, has replaced Tom Stith as the top challenger to Gonzaga's Frank Burgess in the national scoring race among major college basketball players.

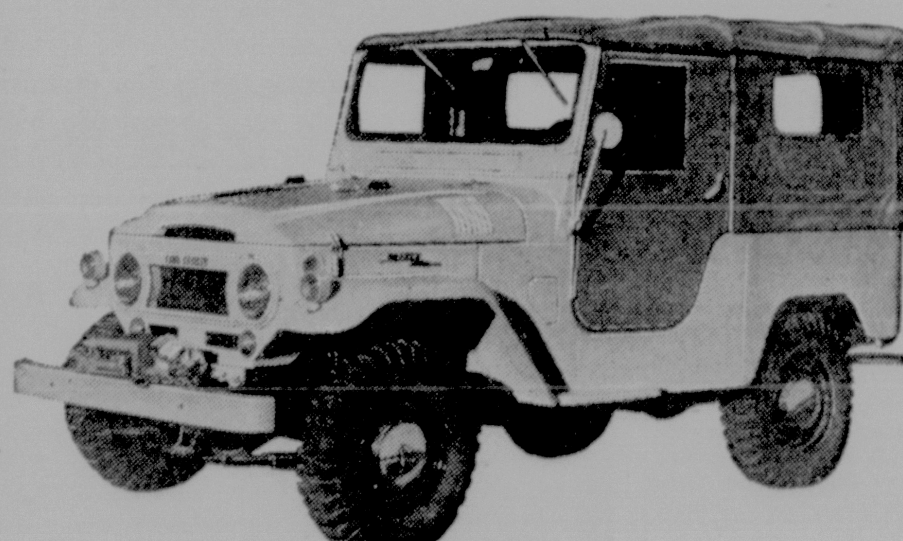

Chilton's burst showed the 6-foot-4 Indiana youngster up to a 31.5 average with 536 points in 17 games through Feb. 7. Burgess, Gonzaga's jump-shooting marvel, remains the national leader with a 32.7 average on 653 points in 20 games.

Stith, ace of second-ranked St. Bonaventure, is now third with a 31.0 average on 558 points in 18 games.

Chilton's 52 points against Austin Peay matched the season single-game high set by Burgess earlier this month against the California Aggies.

Two new leaders turned up Thursday in official statistics released by the NCAA Service Bureau in New York. Lafayette's Morris Boyer has taken over the lead in field goal percentage, with .643 on 63 of 98 attempts. Larry Bale of Murray (Ky.) is second with a .613 percentage followed by Ohio State's Jerry Lucas with .610.

Lucas' Buckeye buddy, Larry Siegfried, has wrested the free throw percentage lead from Georgia Tech's Roger Kaiser. Siegfried has hit 83 of 95 for .874 per cent. Kaiser is right behind with 138 of 158 for .873 cent.

Dividend Payments

By William A. Doyle
Q. Some companies, such as General Public Service, pay dividends once a year — in January. If I bought some of this stock in November or December, would I participate in the distribution for the entire year? If so, why shouldn't I sell this stock in February, put my money in a savings account and buy the stock back in time to repeat the process all over again?
A. There are several reasons why your bright idea won't work out as you think it might. Some companies do pay dividends once a year. But General Public Service isn't one of them. Since 1954, it has paid dividends

Little Chats On Public Notice

What Is a Newspaper?
(No. 4 in a Series)
By James Pollard
THERE are times when what looks like a newspaper may not qualify as such for legal purposes. In many places there are what are known as "shoppers" or "throw-aways." They contain more or less news, they serve a purpose, but their primary purpose is advertising.

Such publications are useful and many of them have been in existence for many years. But it is significant that they cannot qualify for second class entry under the postal laws. Since they do not contain enough news and editorial matter to come within the definition of a bona fide newspaper under the regulations. Then again there are special interest newspapers which, within their limits, also serve useful purposes. These may be fraternal or religious in nature or may have to do with a specific trade, business, industry or profession. But in the very great majority of cases the thousands of state laws governing public notices, or legal advertising, specify the use of bona fide newspapers of paid general circulation in the community for such purposes. This is because such newspapers usually give maximum coverage, circulate throughout the community, their main purpose is to publish editorial and news matter, and their paid circulations are undeniable proof of their merit, their influence, and their being needed in the community.

May Locate Lake On Pa. Shortway

HARRISBURG (AP)—A study will be made of the feasibility of creating a new lake where the Keystone Shortway will cross Nesquehock Creek in Luzerne County, the Forests and Waters Department said yesterday. The investigation will be made by the Conservation Coordinating Committee, consisting of representatives from the department and the Fish and Game commissions. If the study shows the location to be favorable, the highway would cross the creek as a dam at the site, eight miles north of Hazleton. It was estimated that a lake would be from two to three miles long and would stretch along the base of Mount Yearling in Denison Twp.

Soviet Silence Baffles Expert

LONDON (AP)—Britain's leading expert on satellite tracking said that he is inclined to think something has gone wrong aboard the seven-ton Soviet Sputnik—perhaps the breakdown of its radio. "There is certainly something odd about the long Russian silence on the satellite's progress," said Prof. Bernard Lovell, director of the Jodrell Bank tracking station. "If the silence continues, I shall be inclined to believe that something went wrong shortly after the launching."

Books Banned

AMMAN (AP)—Jordan has banned French author Andre Chouraqui's books. They include "The History of Judaism" and "Creation of the Israeli State."

Pennsylvania Action
HARRISBURG (AP)—Pennsylvania is taking immediate steps to implement some of President Kennedy's recommendations for combating the nation's economic ills. Gov. David L. Lawrence said yesterday.

He added in a statement that Kennedy's economic proposals, presented to Congress Thursday, "assure that no time will be wasted in meeting the growing crisis of our depressed areas."
